Diamonds, Bonds, Cash Taken In Thieves' Raid On Victoria

Victoria Daily Times

VOL. 116 NO. 6 * VICTORIA, B.C., MONDAY, JANUARY 9, 1950 —22 PAGES

15 Parking Meters Included In List Of City Robberies

Bonds, diamonds, cash, jewelry and money from parking meters were reported by police today as taken by housebreakers and thieves who broke into downtown business premises and homes during the week-end. Up to this morning city police had discovered 15 parking meters on Langley, Broad, Gordon, Blanshard, Broughton, Courtney and Humboldt Streets broken into and robbed of their penny and nickel contents.

Most of the robberies took place between Saturday night and Sunday morning.

From the home of C. G. Forryan, 700 Richmond Avenue, burglars took a $100 diamond ring, several bottles of brandy and wine and some church money in an envelope. The house was ransacked, all dresser drawers thoroughly gone through. Entry was gained by an unlocked bedroom window, police said.

A toilet window was broken to gain entry to Les Palmer's 714 View Street store. A total of $75 in cash, three or four shirts and possibly other merchandise, were taken. The office was ransacked. Entry took place between 6 and 9 Saturday night.

Money, bonds, a lady's wrist watch with four diamonds in a case, were stolen from the home of E. B. Stinson, 1851 Hollywood Crescent, while he was away for an hour Saturday night. Drawers and a cedar chest in the two bedrooms were turned out by the thieves in their search for jewelry and money. Entry was gained by breaking a small window in the basement.

The office of Norrington's Bakery, Cook Street, was entered but nothing was reported to be missing. Thieves got into the office by removing the top panel off the rear door.

Scared One Thief Away

Mrs. E. Gallagher, Apartment 3 of the Mount Edward Apartments, Vancouver Street, was awakened around 10.30 Saturday night to find a young man standing in the hallway of her suite. When the man heard her, he ran through the bedroom and disappeared through a window, the one he had found open to gain entry.

An attempt was made to get into Pritchard's clothing store, 1227 Government Street, late Saturday night. Jack Dirom of the Horse Shoe Newsstand telephoned police at 11.15 to report he saw three young men running from the rear of the place. Police attending found a hole had been cut in the clothing store's rear door near the lock. No entry had been made, however. The burglars were apparently scared off. A juvenile was arrested in connection with this early Sunday morning.

Vic Murdoch of the Victoria Hat Manufacturing Company, 712 View Street, reported nothing missing after a visit had been made to the premises by burglars. The rear door window was broken to release the lock.

Police this morning were checking on a break-in at North Ward School. B. Nichols told police that the office of Tip Top Auto Sales, 1030 View Street, was entered. Nothing was reported stolen.

Three Cent Rise In Price Of Eggs

Price of grade A large eggs rose in Victoria today three cents, making the retail price to householders 48 cents a dozen.

At the same time, grade A medium and pullet eggs rose two cents a dozen.

Maurice Randall, Dominion poultry products inspector here, attributed the price boost to lower production, caused by cold weather, and increased demand, caused by low prices.

Hongkong Bank Robbed Of $30,000

HONGKONG (AP)—Bold gunmen today robbed the Hongkong branch of the Chase National Bank of an estimated $33,000.

Frank A. Howard, American manager, said the robbers made off with 195,000 Hongkong dollars (about $30,000 U.S.) and some $3,000 in United States currency.

Howard said the robbery was executed within a 10-minute period by six or seven Chinese gunmen.

Weather, Tide Conditions Given As Tug Inquiry Opens

Information on weather, wind and tide and general conditions prevailing on the morning of the disaster were sought from first witnesses at the public inquiry into the sinking of the tug George McGregor, which opened in the Victoria Courthouse this morning.

Joseph B. Clearihue, K.C., is counsel for the Transport Department in the probe being held under Canada Shipping Act.

Six Victorians lost their lives by drowning following the capsizing and sinking of the Victoria Tug Company's boat off Trial Island about 4.30 in the morning of Nov. 26.

Gerald Anderson, 17, deckhand, of 914 Selkirk Avenue, sole survivor, will be among witnesses as will be Wilfred McGregor, head of the tug company.

First witness called by Mr. Clearihue was Lieut. Noel Hutton, a former master of the tug who gave information as to the ship. William Burton, head of the Gonzales Meteorological Station, testified as to weather conditions; G. W. La Croix, wind and tides, and William C. Copeland, lighthousekeeper on Trial Island, on prevailing conditions at the time of the disaster.

Mr. Justice Sidney Smith of the Court of Appeals is presiding, assisted by two "marine advisers," Capt. James F. Patrick and Hugh G. Robinson, both of Vancouver.

Victims of the marine disaster were: Jack Mason, 23, skipper; William Hunter, 21, mate; Alfred "Slim" Matthews, cook; Alfred Johanneson, 35, chief engineer; Leo Dobinson, 44, second engineer, and Harvey Reader, 30, deckhand.

Truman Offers $5,100,000,000 Deficit Budget

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman submitted a $5,100,000,000-in-the-red budget today ith a warning to Congress that to tamper with it might upset prosperity at home and peace in the world.

It is an anti-deflation budget, as economists would view it. The government would be putting more money into the public's pocket than it takes out in the year starting July 1. That is a prop for income and buying power.

Truman replied in advance to the expected roar of disapproval from economy-minded Congress members. Federal expenditures, he said, are "direct supports for important sectors of our economy."

BALANCE IN FUTURE

He declared the budget provides a "solid basis for moving toward budgetary balance in the next few years," and gave this warning against "sharp and arbitary" slashes:

"Irrespons ible and short-sighted budget action could contribute to a worsening of the world situation and to a decline in production and employment in the United States."

Six Loggers Safe After Being Feared Lost Off Island

Frank Whittaker of Duncan and five other men, who Sunday night were reported missing in waters off Salt Spring Island, turned up at Fulford Harbor this morning safe and sound.

Fears for the six, employed by Whittaker Bros.' logging outfit on Pender Island, arose when they failed to show up at Ganges Sunday evening after setting out from Cowichan Bay at 2 that afternoon.

By eight Sunday night B.C. police in the area were alerted and Philip Whittaker, Frank's brother and partner, set out from Duncan in another boat to search for the missing six. He was unable to find any trace of them or their 32-foot cabin boat, the Dora Belle.

Skipper Earl Rockwood of the B.C. police boat at Ganges was preparing a search of his own this morning when word came through that the missing Dora Belle had arrived at Fulford with all hands aboard.

At Fulford, Frank explained the Dora Belle developed engine trouble midway between Cowichan Bay and Salt Spring and that the six aboard rowed the boat into shelter of a cove while repairs were undertaken over night.

Hope To Refloat Fishpacker Today

The 103-foot fishing tender Cape Flattery was expected to be refloated today after running aground near Campbell River, Vancouver Island, Sunday night, according to S. M. Rosenberg, general manager of Canadian Fishing Co., owners.

The fishpacker hit a reef five miles south of Campbell River as rough weather whipped up waters off the island. The five crew members were unhurt.

Weather Forecast

Snow today, turning to rain before evening; cloudy overnight and Tuesday; little change in temperature. Light winds, increasing to southeast 15 m.p.h. during afternoon and shifting to southwest 25 by tonight. Low tonight, 30; high Tuesday, 38.

Sunday Crash Drivers Cheat Death

Five-ton Island Freight Ltd. truck was bowled over by one-ton navy panel truck in Island Highway smash-up Sunday, but neither of the drivers was injured seriously.

Fights Storm To Aid Two Stranded Friends

A 17-year-old Oak Bay High School student Sunday evening rowed to shore alone through the treacherous, storm-tossed waters off Cadboro Bay to get aid for his two duck-hunting companions, stranded on Jimmy Chicken Island, off Ten Mile Point.

The youth was Paul King, 2713 Cavendish Avenue, who made the dangerous trip despite protests of his companions, Cyril Black, of Glen Lake, and Charlie Spears, an Eaton's employee, both 21 years old.

Oak Bay police, notified when Paul reached shore, contacted the Royal Canadian Navy at Esquimalt which sent out the naval auxiliary vessel Y.C. No. 2 at approximately 7 in the evening. She reached the two stranded duck-hunters an hour and a half later and took them back to H.M.C. Dockyard.

The duck-hunting trio left Paul's Cavendish Street home at 10.30 Sunday morning and obtained a rowboat from Oak Bay Boathouse. After hunting through the day, they began to make the journey back from Chatham Island when an easterly wind blew up and forced them to take shelter on Jemmy Jones Island.

Realizing the water was too rough for the three of them to try to make shore in the rowboat, Paul decided to make the crossing alone. He arrived home at 6.30.

I.W.A. Plans Strike If Demands Not Met

NANAIMO (CP)—Definite warning was served on the lumber operators of British Columbia by the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) convention here at its closing session Sunday that unless a union shop is granted in the new agreement and wages are increased, a strike vote will be asked.

The resolution reads that if no favorable satisfaction with the employers is reached "upon opening negotiations, we immediately comply with the Conciliation and Arbitration Act, take a strike vote, and if no contract is reached by June 15, we strike."

It is the most important of many resolutions put through by the three-day convention. It secured a unanimous endorsement.

Another resolution puts a ban on district officers of the I.W.A. becoming elected to provincial legislatures or the Commons and remaining in union office.

It agrees that officers, on securing political nomination, should be granted leave of absence without pay, unless they are otherwise authorized by their locals or the district executive board.

The convention also called on the federal government to implement the "Green Book" recommendation and provide assistance to unemployed employables whose unemployment insurance has expired.

COST $200,000

Carl Winn, international secretary-treasurer, in an address, said it had cost the international union $200,000 to defeat the attempted disaffiliation in October, 1948. He again pledged that it would be prepared to give all it had to defeat Communism.

Adolph Germer, international director of organization, said the best way to defeat Communism was to do a little better job.

Pen Baskin, president of the Vancouver Labor Council (C.C.L.) charged that Hon. Gordon Wismer, former Minister of Labor, his broken his promise that a round table conference on wages and conditions would be called. Hon. John Cates, the new minister, had undertaken to meet the various groups separately, but Mr. Baskin claimed he had been in the legislature when Mr. Wismer had promised the round table talks which, he claimed, would make better progress.

On Saturday some district leaders attacked the power of the B.C. Labor Relations Board to decide union jurisdiction. The attacks were made before Mr. Cates, who later received a rousing reception when he rose to speak.

Mr. Cates said harmonious labor-management relations were essential to further development in British Columbia. He appealed for team work "without bitterness or rancor."

'Hopalong' Mobbed

Big Truck Turned Over In Collision With Navy Vehicle

A cut eye and a twisted knee were the only injuries received by drivers of two trucks which crashed in a spectacular collision Sunday morning at 8.45 on the Island Highway near View Royal.

T. (Andy) Lomas, 2569 Prior Street, suffered the knee injury, and Ernest Atherton, 1422 Gladstone Avenue, the cut eye.

DAMAGE HEAVY

Damage was heavy. It is expected it will amount to $1,200 in the case of the freight truck, which was traveling empty to Sooke on a daily milk run. Front end of the Navy truck was stove in.

Const. Bud Godfrey of the B.C. police highway patrol said the Navy truck was going toward town when it skidded on a curve in the highway and hit the outbound freight truck on the left side near the front.

"It caught the big truck just right to turn it over into a ditch at the side of the road," the patrol officer reported.

Atherton was treated for the eye injury at the navy hospital and was released. Lomas did not require medical attention.

MINOR ACCIDENTS

Two minor traffic accidents Sunday were reported by Sgt. Eric Elwell of the Saanich police. Both occurred on Quadra Street, and both were attributed to slippery pavement.

Four cars were involved in one Sunday night at Quadra and Reynolds Road. A car driven by Stanley Lloyd, 1564 Gladstone, stopped at the intersection. Two others pulled up behind. A fourth was unable to stop before crashing the third car.

In the other, at Quadra and McKenzie Avenue, at 1.40 in the afternoon, two cars skidded together. Fenders were crumpled.

Match Monoply In Canada Says Report Of Combines Probe

OTTAWA (CP)—Existence of an international cartel controlling the wooden match industry in Canada which is stiffling all forms of competition is charged in a report made public today by Justice Minister Garson.

The last report written by F. A. McGregor, combines investigation commissioner, who resigned Jan. 1, alleges that a monopoly exists in the manufacture, distribution and sale of wooden matches in Canada.

It names the Eddy Match Company Ltd., with head office in Pembroke, Ont., as the dominant firm in the industry in this country.

Some of its subsidiary companies are named as parties to the formation and operation of the alleged price-fixing combine.

These four companies, all in Quebec, are: Commonwealth Match Company of St. John's; Canada Match Company and Federal Match, both of Hull, and Valcourt Company of Montreal.

"Such methods as fighting brands, low prices in specific areas, confidential discounts and rebates have been employed with the definite objective of preventing the growth of new and independent producers," the report says.

"Through establishment of a system of resale price, maintenance of competition in price among wholesalers of matches in wide areas has been eliminated.

"In addition, active steps were taken by representatives of the Eddy Match in a number of instances to secure the observance of minimum retail prices where active competition at this level seemed likely to develop.

"The use of monopoly power in all these ways clearly removes conditions of free competition from the industry and limits freedom of opportunities to all except those who could challenge that power with equal strength."

The report contains a specific recommendation in regard to the protection given the Canadian match industry by duties on imported matches.

Revision Of Tariffs Urged

It urges the government to review the rates of custom duties with a view to assuring that the tariffs do not have the result of excluding all foreign match competition.

The job of the Combines Investigation Commission is to investigate industries suspected of operating machinery to fix uniform prices, thus eliminating competition.

In the case of the match investigation, hearings were held in Ottawa and Montreal by Deputy Commissioner A. W. Whiteley. The 194-page report was submitted to Mr. Carson Dec. 27 and made public 13 days later.

Under the law, such reports must be released by the Minister within 15 days of receipt. Mr. McGregor's resignation resulted from the 10-month delay last year in releasing the flour-milling combines report.

The match report is being studied by the Justice Department and a decision on whether legal action will be taken against the alleged combine will be made later.

Since 1927 five independent match companies which entered the industry had all been brought under control.

In 1946, the Western Match Company began operating in Victoria, the report says. "Eddy Match immediately took steps to deal with the possible disturbance to its monopoly position. Arrangements were made for construction of a branch plant at Mission, B.C.

"Its shipments of matches to western Canada were substantially increased, even before Western Match actually began production."

The report adds that when Western Match started operating in 1946, it faced a "loaded market in the west."

"The system of preferential discounts which Eddy Match had established, as well as its program of resale price maintenance in western Canada, further narrowed the opportunities of the new company.

"Western Match as an independent company had a very brief existence. It was acquired by Eddy Match in 1949 after the news company had continued to experience difficulties in maintaining operations."

Religion Attacked

COLOGNE, Germany (AP) — Joseph Cardinal Frings said Sunday that freedom of religion is under severe attack in Russian-occupied eastern Germany.

Rain Tonight Forecast To Clear New Fall Of Snow

Scattered snow flurries forecast for this area overnight did a mite more scattering than anticipated, and Victorians awoke this morning and saw, with some surprise, a three-inch blanket of powdery, wet snow on the ground.

Old Man Winter seems to have taken delight in recent weeks in keeping a goodly portion of Victoria's traditional winter green buried under the white stuff.

But his antics may come to an end by tonight as the active storm which developed over the B.C. coast during the night moves into the interior. Rain is forecast in the wake of the disturbance.

CLOSE-IN AREAS WORST

The city and close-in suburbs were worst hit by last night's snowfall. Three inches were recorded at the Meteorological Observatory on Gonzales Hill, and about the same amount fell throughout the city.

Further out, only a light fall was recorded, but conditions are similar to those in the city, quite a bit of snow from the New Year's cold spell still remains on the ground. At Brentwood, only a light coating covered the earlier snowfalls.

Roads on most of Vancouver Island were treacherous this morning, with police advising motorists to use chains on highways.

Six to eight inches of snow fell on the Malahat Sunday night, covering a thick coat of ice on the highway. Closer to town, some automobiles got into difficulty this morning on Four-Mile Hill.

REGULAR BLIZZARD

Duncan had a six-inch blanket today following what a police constable described as "a regular blizzard" up till midnight Sunday. Snow plows were at work during the night clearing main thoroughfares.

Nanaimo and Port Alberni each reported three inches of fresh snow. No serious accidents have occurred at the up-island centres.

Campbell River, where two feet of snow, a hang-over from the storm more than a week ago, had about two inches, adding to the hazardous road conditions.

Combine In Match Industry Charged

Relatives, Friends Throng Courtroom For Tug Inquiry

Joseph B. Clearihue, K.C., counsel for the Department of Transport, addresses Mr. Justice Sidney Smith, commissioner, presiding at the opening of the public inquiry into the sinking of the tug George McGregor, in the crowded Court of Appeal room at the Courthouse today. Gerald Anderson, sole survivor of the sinking, was in the courtroom to give evidence.

Testifies Lost Tug Of Good Stability

Evidence that the captain, Jack Mason, was fully qualified and of usually good judgment, and the tug a ship of good stability for her type and size, was given by Lieut. Noel H. Hutton, R.C.N., first witness at the opening of the public inquiry into the sinking of the George McGregor, today.

When asked why the ship sank he replied: "Probably because the doors were not battened down."

The Appeal Court room in the Courthouse was packed to capacity, with many left standing as relatives and friends of the six victims came to hear the evidence on one of the worst marine disasters in Victoria's history.

Six of the seven-man crew lost their lives when the tug capsized and sank in heavy weather off Trial Island about 4.30 in the morning of Nov. 26 last year. Gerald Anderson, 17, a deckhand, who clung to an upturned rowboat for three hours, was the sole survivor, and will give evidence.

"Her stability was good for the size and type of ship and I never worried about her capsizing," Lieut. Hutton, who was master of the George McGregor for nine months, told the inquiry.

He said the ship was not top-heavy and had the usual amount of freeboard for that type of ship. When asked by Joseph B. Clearihue, K.C., counsel for the Department of Transport, whether it was dangerous to bring the tug around Trial Island in the prevailing weather conditions, he replied:

QUESTION OF JUDGMENT

"It's a question of judgment. I've taken her around under similar conditions."

When asked about a raft, he said one was not required by law but that he liked to see a raft aboard.

"I knew Capt. Mason. He had more experience than I did in handling scows and tugs. He was a qualified man."

Lt. Hutton said that Mason worked under him on the George McGregor and he had no criticism of his work and found his judgment to be usually good. When asked of his own experience, Lt. Hutton said he had 27 years' sea experience.

"In comparison with a steam tug the same size, the George McGregor had less stability but about the same stability with a diesel," he told the inquiry. "Diesels usually have far less freeboard than steam tugs."

GOOD SEA BOAT

He added that the tug, a diesel, was a good seaboat and he was prepared to trust his life on her. He reported that on Nov. 3, 1948, he ran through a gale with estimated gusts of 95 miles per hour.

"I lost two scows but saved the ship."

Mr. Clearihue, in outlining the events of the disaster, said he would endeavor to be neutral and obtain all necessary information. He said that it would appear the ship "got broadside on and rolled over as she came around Trial Island." Inspection reports and plans were filed.

Mr. Justice Sidney Smith of the Court of Appeals is presiding, assisted by two "marine advisers," Capt. James F. Patrick and Hugh G. Robinson, both of Vancouver. Herbert W. Davey, K.C., is counsel for the Victoria Tug Company Limited.

Victims of the disaster were: Jack Mason, 23, skipper; William Hunter, 21, mate; Alfred "Slim" Matthews, cook; Alfred Johanneson, 35, chief engineer; Leo Dobinson, 44, second engineer, and Harvey Reader, 30, deckhand.

NOTIFIED OF GALE

William Burton, superintendent of the Dominion Meteorological Observatory on Gonzales Heights, testified had been notified Nov. 25 that a gale was heading for the lower island area. He said, as was customary, he relayed the gale warning to various city shipping firms by phone. The Victoria Tug Company was included among firms notified.

George W. La Croix, of the Dominion Hydrographic Service, questioned by Mr. Clearihue about the inner passage, in respect to the outer one, which the tug George McGregor attempted to use, said:

"I certainly wouldn't want to take a tug boat through there (the inner passage), if the visibility was poor, because of the many rocks."

William C. Copeland, lightkeeper on Trial Island, said he was up at 4 o'clock on the morning of the 26th but saw and heard no vessels in the vicinity.

Stanley J. Fraser, dispatcher for the Victoria Tug Company, testified he last talked with Capt. Mason over ship-to-shore radio at 12.30 on the afternoon of the 25th. At the time the tug was off Nanaimo.

"I told him to come in light after he had delivered his tow at Bamberton."

Refloat Fishpacker Grounded Up-Island

The 103-foot fishing tender Cape Flattery, which ran aground in a heavy snowfall near Campbell River Sunday, was refloated today.

S. M. Rosenberg, general manager of Canadian Fishing Co., owners of the fishing tender, said the Cape Flattery was pulled free at high tide shortly before nine this morning and was en route to Vancouver.

The vessel ran aground five miles south of Campbell River, on the east coast of Vancouver Island. She had unloaded a herring cargo and was returning to the herring grounds when she ran aground.

Skipper Leslie House and the four crewmen escaped unhurt.

"We don't know the amount of damage to the Cape Flattery until we get her on the ways in Vancouver," Mr. Rosenberg said.

Saanich Indians Believed Drowned

Two West Saanich Indians are believed to have drowned in Saanich Inlet.

The two, Harry Fisher, 30, and Ernie Wilson, 30, left their reserve, near Brentwood, Thursday night at 9. They set out in a 15-foot rowboat to go clam digging at Senanus Island, in Saanich Inlet. They have not been heard from since.

Their capsized vessel was discovered by T. Larson. Positive identification was established through work of B.C. Police at Sidney.

'Revenge' Murders

KOSCIUSKO, Miss. (UP)—Three negro children were shot to death early today and their father and a sister were seriously wounded by three white men reportedly "seeking revenge."

Train Service Cut

MONTREAL (BUP)—Canadian National Railways train services were slashed 25 per cent today throughout the system's cross-Canada system.

N. B. Walton, executive vice-president, said Sunday night the railway was forced to go ahead with its 25 per cent reduction in services because no easing in the acute coal situation was indicated.

British Doctor Says He Carried Out Three Mercy Killings

LONDON (AP)—A British doctor was quoted in a London newspaper as telling how he performed the "mercy killing" of three patients whose cases were hopeless.

His purported "frank confession" was printed in the Empire News, London Sunday publication of Lord Kemsley's newspaper group, under the heading, "Why I Let Three People Die."

The article was one of many examples of Britain's interest in the case of Dr. Hermann N. Sander of Candia, New Hampshire, accused of putting a cancer patient to death to end her suffering.

The Empire News did not name the author of its article. The paper said it did not necessarily agree with his opinions, but published them as a matter of vital public interest.

The writer said he deliberately had taken three human lives "in the ordinary course of my professional practice, twice with the approval of the nearest relatives" and once on his own responsibility.

"I have never for one moment doubted that what I did was right," he said. He added this was typical of what "many medical men in this country" think about euthanasia, or mercy killing.

Cowichan, Shawnigan Highways Opened

The Lake Cowichan and Shawnigan Lake roads, covered with 12 inches of fresh snow, were opened by snow plows early this afternoon, provincial works department officials said today.

The Island Highway has been kept open from Victoria to Sayward. The overnight snowfall varied from two inches on the Malahat to 14 at Comox.

On the mainland most of the major highways are open, despite snowfalls. Plows are working continuously, and motorists are advised to be on the lookout for them.

Fights Storm To Aid Two Stranded Friends

A 17-year-old Oak Bay High School student Sunday evening rowed to shore alone through the treacherous, storm-tossed waters off Cadboro Bay to get aid for his two duck-hunting companions, stranded on Jemmy Jones Island, off Ten Mile Point.

The youth was Paul King, 2713 Cavendish Avenue, who made the dangerous trip despite protests of his companions, Cyril Black, of Glen Lake, and Charlie Spears, an Eaton's employee, both 21 years old.

Oak Bay police, notified when Paul reached shore, contacted the Royal Canadian Navy at Esquimalt which sent out the naval auxiliary vessel Y.C. No. 2 at approximately 7 in the evening. She reached the two stranded duck-hunters an hour and a half later and took them back to H.M.C. Dockyard.

The duck-hunting trio left Paul's Cavendish Street home at 10.30 Sunday morning and obtained a rowboat from Oak Bay Boathouse. After hunting through the day, they began to make the journey back from Chatham Island when an easterly wind blew up and forced them to take shelter on Jemmy Jones Island.

Realizing the water was too rough for the three of them to try to make shore in the rowboat, Paul decided to make the crossing alone. He arrived home at 6.30.

Commons Chamber Made Ready For Conference

OTTAWA (CP)—Workmen today put the Commons chamber in readiness for the Dominion-provincial constitutional conference opening tomorrow.

The regular clerk's table at the foot of the Speaker's dais was removed and replaced by a longer and broader table. Around it will sit the heads of Canada's 11 governments.

The desks ordinarily used by members of the Commons will be used by federal and provincial delegates.

The first meeting of the conference will be open to the public. The delegates will be asked to decide whether other meetings should be held in private with the press and the public excluded.

Police Investigating Fourteen Robberies

City detectives have arrested one juvenile and have other suspects as a result of investigations into the wave of house and shop break-ins and parking meter robberies which took place in Victoria during the week-end.

Plainclothesmen were busy today investigating 14 break-ins of homes and business premises and attempted entries. In addition 21 parking meters have been robbed.

Cash, bonds and jewelry were included in the thieves' haul.

Police believe youths in their late 'teens or a little older to be responsible for the new outbreak of robberies.

Homes were entered through unlocked windows or breaking windows. All business premises were entered by either breaking rear windows or cutting holes near backdoor locks to release catches and locks. Houses were ransacked.

A $100 dimaond ring, several bottles of brandy and wine, and some church money, were stolen from the home of C. G. Forryan, 700 Richmond Road.

From Les Palmer's 714 View Street clothing store, thieves got $75 in cash, about four shirts and possibly other merchandise.

Money, bonds and a lady's wrist watch with four diamonds, were stolen from the home of E. B. Stinson, 1851 Hollywood Crescent. This happened while the family was away for one hour.

Burglars broke into Norrington's Cook Street bakery but took nothing.

An attempt to enter the clothing store of Price and Smith, Yates Street, failed. Using a ladder to get at an upper story window, the thief broke in only to find a shield barring the way.

A typewriter, telephone, a set of keys and several silver school trophies were stolen from North Ward School.

From Model Cleaners, 768 Fort Street, a pair of shears and a hammer were stolen. They were found in the premises of Layritz Nurseries Ltd., 772 Fort, which was also entered but nothing taken.

An attempt was also made to get into Minnie Beveridge's hat shop at 778 Fort. No entry was made.

One thief got a fright when he entered a Mount Edward Apartments suite via an unlocked bedroom window Saturday night. The occupant, Mrs. E. Gallagher, Suite 3, was awakened by the noise of the entry. The young man made a hurried exit through the same window.

Three young men who were trying to get into Prichard's 1227 Government Street clothing store through the back door were scared off after they had carved a hole near the lock. They were seen running away by Jack Dirom of the Horse Shoe newsstand. Police later arrested a juvenile.

Nothing was taken from the Victoria Hat Company's premises at 712 View Street which was entered Saturday night, Vic Murdoch, manager, reported.

Nothing was reported stolen from the office of Tip Top Sales, 1030 View Street, which was entered Saturday night.

Saanich police reported two footballs stolen from Tolmie School.

Over 50 Applicants For City Manager

Thirty-eight requests for application forms in the appointment of a city manager for Victoria have been received at the City Hall, it was learned today from Frank Hunter, city clerk.

Only three completed application forms are on file so far.

Deadline for receipt of applications is Feb. 22 and it is expected over 50 will be on hand for City Council consideration after that date.

Tobogganists Hurt

SASKATOON (CP)—Cold weather Sunday night snapped a two-by-two wooden railing on the Riverview toboggan slide just as four Saskatoon tobogganists came down the incline. All were injured, one seriously.

Three Cent Rise In Price Of Eggs

Price of grade A large eggs rose in Victoria today three cents, making the retail price to householders 48 cents a dozen.

At the same time, grade A medium and pullet eggs rose two cents a dozen.

Western Match One Of Five Taken By Eddy

Western Match Co., which was organized and financed in Victoria, and operated for a short time, was one of five match companies brought under control of the Eddy Match Co. Ltd. since 1927, according to a report made public today in Ottawa by Justice Minister Garson.

Existence of an international cartel controlling the wooden match industry in Canada which is stifling all forms of competition is charged in the report.

The last report written by F. A. McGregor, combines investigation commissioner, who resigned Jan. 1, alleges that a monopoly exists in the manufacture, distribution and sale of wooden matches in Canada.

It names the Eddy Match Company Ltd., with head office in Pembroke, Ont., as the dominant firm in the industry in this country.

In 1946, the Western Match Company began operating in Victoria, the report says, "Eddy Match immediately took steps to deal with the possible disturbance to its monopoly position. Arrangements were made for construction of a branch plant at Mission, B.C.

"Its shipments of matches to western Canada were substantially increased, even beforee Western Match actually began production."

The report adds that when Western Match started operating in 1946, it faced a loaded market in the west."

"The system of preferential discounts which Eddy Match had established, as well as its program of resale price maintenance in western Canada, further narrowed the opportunities of the new company.

"Western Match as an independent company had a very brief existence. It was acquired by Eddy Match in 1949 after the new company had continued to experience difficulties in maintaining operations."

Confidential Discounts

Some of its subsidiary companies are named as parties to the formation and operation of the alleged price-fixing combine.

These four companies, all in Quebec, are: Commonwealth Match Company of St. John's; Canada Match Company and Federal Match, both of Hull, and Valcourt Company of Montreal.

"Such methods as fighting brands, low prices in specific areas, confidential discounts and rebates have been employed with the definite objective of preventing the growth of new and independent producers," the report says.

"Through establishment of a system of resale price, maintenance of competition in price among wholesalers of matches in wide areas has been eliminated.

"In addition, active steps were taken by representatives of the Eddy Match in a number of instances to secure the observance of minimum retail prices where active competition at this level seemed likely to develop.

"The use of monopoly power in all these ways clearly removes conditions of free competition from the industry and limits freedom of opportunities to all except those who could challenge that power with equal strength."

The report contains a specific recommendation in regard to the protection given the Canadian match industry by duties on imported matches.

It urges the government to review the rates of custom duties with a view to assuring that the tariffs do not have the result of excluding all foreign match competition.

The job of the Combines Investigation Commission is to investigate industries suspected of operating machinery to fix uniform prices, thus eliminating competition.

In the case of the match investigation, hearings were held in Ottawa and Montreal by Deputy Commissioner A. W. Whiteley. The 194-page report was submitted to Mr. Carson Dec. 27 and made public 13 days later.

Under the law, such reports must be released by the Minister within 15 days of receipt. Mr. McGregor's resignation resulted from the 10-month delay last year in releasing the flour-milling combines report.

The match report is being studied by the Justice Department and a decision on whether legal action will be taken against the alleged combine will be made later.

KNOWS OF NO BREACHES

In New York today, Robert G. Fairburn, president of the Diamond Match Co., commented:

"We have had no opportunity as yet to study the lengthy report of Mr. McGregor. We know of no act of the Diamond Match Company that violates any Canadian law. All activity by the company in Canada has been in the interest of the Canadian public."

$5,100,000,000 Deficit Budget Tabled By Truman

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman submitted a $5,100,000,000-in-the-red budget today ith a warning to Congress that to tamper with it might upset prosperity at home and peace in the world.

It is an anti-deflation budget, as economists would view it. The government would be putting more money into the public's pocket than it takes out in the year starting July 1. That is a prop for income and buying power.

Truman replied in advance to the expected roar of disapproval from economy-minded Congress members. Federal expenditures, he said, are "direct supports for important sectors of our economy."

He declared the budget provides a "solid basis for moving toward budgetary balance in the next few years," and gave this warning against "sharp and arbitary" slashes:

"Irresponsible and short-sighted budget action could contribute to a worsening of the world situation and to a decline in production and employment in the United States."

Mayor Wants Drunk Tests

Mayor Percy George wants City Council to seek legislation at the coming session of provincial Legislature enabling police to make tests of suspected drunken drivers without fear of assault charges being laid against them.

The chief magistrate said today the question of police powers in laying drunken driving charges will be discussed fully at a meeting next Thursday at 2 of the City Council in committee of the whole.

Taking part in the discussion will be the members of the Police Commission, City Prosecutor Claud L. Harrison, the city medical health officer, Dr. J. L. Gayton, and City Solicitor Arthur Patton.

"I think it is time we had a full discussion of the council and officials and take action," said Mayor George.

The enabling legislation the mayor favors probably would take the form of an amendment to the B.C. Motor Vehicle Act.

Mayor George, chairman of the Police Commission, pointed out the difficulty the police have in proving drunkenness.

The taking of blood tests of suspects had been advocated by some doctors but the individual could refuse to allow a blood sample to be taken from him. And if he did allow it the argument could be used against the person taking the sample that the individual was not responsible in that he was intoxicated.

One Woman's Day

By NANCY HODGES

POSTMEN AND PUPS

HAVING BEEN CONFINED to the house for the last week with a bad cold, I have had the opportunity to observe some of the normal goings-on in this neighborhood through the window, and to notice some of the things I am not here to see in the ordinary course of events.

Take, for instance, the daily visit of the postman who has been trudging daily up to the door with a big load—which seemed to be bigger and more burdensome than usual all through the snowy weather.

A kindly, cheery soul, with a spirit that seems to rise above all the discomforts of wintry weather, he invariably has several four-legged companions as he makes his long rounds through this quickly-growing community.

DOGGY DEVOTION

I DON'T KNOW where he picks them up—or it would perhaps be more correct to say "where they pick him up"—but he seldom reaches here without an escort of at least two dogs, sometimes more.

Always there is the frisky little brown setter puppy and its companion piece, which seems to be a combination of part Irish, part wire-haired terrier. They frisk about him gaily as he strides along sorting his letters, then accompany him part way up the drive.

But I notice that they leave him at that point and sniff around a bit, rather like canine Ferdinands, but never venturing far away. There they are, waiting to greet him again after he has deposited his load in our letter box, and off they go with him, tails a-wagging, as he resumes his round.

DAILY EPISODE

THIS DAILY doggy interlude reminds me of the Oak Bay "postie" who, for years, was accompanied on his round by a faithful friend which used to meet him at a certain streetcar every day, until illness forced his retirement. And for weeks afterwards, the dog used to meet the streetcar, obviously grieved and puzzled when his postman pal failed to appear.

Such episodes attest to the kindly nature of our local "posties"—and perhaps to the dogs, too. And it throws into sharp contrast a snappy little item I read under a Chicago date line a few weeks ago.

SNAPPY ITEM

IT WAS TO THE EFFECT that 154 Chicago postmen claimed to have been bitten by bad-tempered dogs last year while delivering mail on their routes in the tough and "windy city." So, Dr. W. A. Young, a veterinarian, gave them some advice on how to stop dogs biting them.

It was: "Stop, stand still, put your hands in your pockets and talk to the dog."

I don't know whether any of them tried it or not but the postmen, according to the item, didn't think much of the advice. If all I have read of that tough city is true, it may be that the postmen didn't use the right language, or that the dogs mistook the hand-in-pocket technique for a gangster gesture.

UNION SKEPTICAL

Anyhow, the postmen's union leader, Fred Andrews, was moved to make this snappy retort to the vet's proffered advice: "Dr. Young doesn't know what he's talking about. If he offers himself for a test we'll gladly dress him in postman's uniform and supply the right dog."

Perhaps the union's idea of the right dog and the vet's are at variance. But after what I have seen of the friendly relations which exist between Victoria postmen and Victoria dogs I am inclined to think that both must be of better breed—and breeding—than are the carriers and canines of Chicago.

OPEN SWITCH, FATAL COLLISION—In this head-on collision of two Canadian Pacific Railway trains near Cranbrook last Friday, two persons died and nine were injured. The third baggage car of one train perched atop its locomotive. The two intervening baggage cars were smashed to bits. A late-running passenger train ran into a standing freight train. An open switch on a siding was blamed.—(CP Photo)

Cleveland Ball Club Year's Big Disappointment

NEW YORK (AP)—A hero today and a bum tomorrow. That's what they say, and Cleveland Indians have been voted the biggest sports disappointment of 1949 in the annual year-end Associated Press poll of the sports editors of the United States.

Last year, Cleveland was voted the outstanding team of 1948 after battling to the American League pennant and beating Boston Braves in the World Series.

The 1949 team-of-the-year vote already has come to the Notre Dame football team, undefeated in 38 games over a four-year span. Notre Dame netted 213 points, compared with 149 points for New York Yankees, 1949 world baseball champions. Cleveland failed to get a single vote.

In 1949, although top favorites with Boston Red Sox to win the American League flag, Cleveland wound up in third place. The Red Sox were second.

CLOSE DECISION

But the voting was close, and the Indians acquired the disappointment "honor" by the margin of a single ballot. The Indians got 15 votes while the Red Sox and Boston Braves tied for second with 14 each.

The Braves got into the disappointment department by failing to repeat as the National League flag winner, and because of the intra-club troubles and reported insurrection against manager Billy Southworth.

Contributory to the voting in the cases of Cleveland Indians and Boston Braves, was the failure of two star pitchers to measure up to their 1948 form. Several writers voted Johnny Sain of Boston Braves and Bobby Feller of Cleveland as the biggest disappointments, along with their teams.

Sport Briefs

CHIICAGO (AP)—Police today investigated the possibility of arson in a fire which destroyed the Greentree Stables in suburban Norwood Park. Twenty-two riding horses burned to death in the fire Friday. A stableboy was severely burned. Deputy Sheriff Peter Guttilla said some automobile tire tracks and three metal caps smelling of gasoline were found behind the stables.

SCUNTHORPE, Linconshire, Eng. (CP)—George Chenier of Toronto Saturday qualified for the semifinals of the world snooker tournament when he defeated Peter Mans, South African champion, by 37 frames to 34 in the quarter-finals. Chenier is Canadian snooker champion.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Avery Brundage said Sunday the United States Olympic Association which he heads plans to tighten up its rules in an effort to bring the international games to the United States again. Brundage, in Washington for a meeting of the association, told a reporter that his group, which controls American participation in the Olympics, does not plan to have more than one city in the running for the 1960 games.

REPAIR OLD FLAG

LONDON (CP)—The London school of needlework has given a new lease of life to the first Union Jack ever flown from Malta. It has been repaired here and will be sent back to the island.

Cinderella Horse Rules Grand National Favorite

LONDON (AP)—A cinderella horse may bring the Royal Family its first victory in the Grand National steeplechase in 50 years.

The horse is Monaveen, who shot from rags to riches when Princess Elizabeth and her mother, The Queen, bought him last fall.

Two years ago Monaveen, a nine-year-old brown gelding that looks a little scrawny for a jumper, ran in a claiming race and failed to finish. Now he's the winter book favorite for the big chase at Aaintree, made world famous by the Irish sweepstakes.

The only Royal horse ever to win the race was the Prince of Wales' Ambush II in 1900.

A lover of horses since she was given a Shetland pon yat the age of four, Princess Elizabeth urged the purchase of Monaveen after a tip from Tony Grantham, the Royal jockey.

Although owned in partnership, Monaveen races in the Princess' colors — scarlet, purple hooped sleeves and black cap.

FINE RECORD

Monaveen already has won almost three times his reported purchase price of £1,000 ($3,100). In four starts he's finished first three times and second once — quite a change from his pre-Royal career of five victories in 17 starts.

The sudden turn-about in form has been hard to figure. Despite the impressive recent record Monaveen was allowed to start his last race at odds of 10 to 1. He won by eight lengths.

The winter book price on Monaveen for the Grand National has dropped from the high 20's to the current favorite's role at 16 to 1.

Because of the great popularity of his Royal owners he's bound to be the sentimental favorite—if not the actual betting choice—comes post time at Aintree, March 25.

NEW YORK (AP) — Alvin Dark, shortstop recently acquired from Boston Braves baseball club in a gigantic six-man trade, has signed his 1950 contract, New York Giants said Sunday. It is believed the 27-year-old all-around athlete, who was given a $40,000 bonus for signing a Boston contract in 1946, will receive around $16,000.

Discus Throw By Gordien Receives World Recognition

LONDON (AP) — Fourteen world records set in 1949 were accepted Sunday by the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

Two record discus throws by Fortune Gordien of Minneapolis, Minn., were the only American performances included.

The former University of Minnesota star threw the discus 185 feet, 2¾ inches at Lisbon, Portugal, June 9, and then topped that throw with one of 186 feet 11 inches at Tavastehus, Finland, Aug. 14. The previous mark of 181 feet 6¾ inches was held by Adolfo Consolini of Italy.

A Russian athlete gained world record status for the first time in years when the I.A.A.F. accepted two marks by N. V. Smirnitskaja, a woman javelin thrower. Her best distance was 175 feet 2¾ inches, 17 feet better than the old record held by Hannah Bauma, an Austrian.

The men's 10,000-metre run brought three record-breaking times with Emil Zatopek of Czechoslovakia, the Olympia 10,000-metre king, emerging on top.

Zaptokeh ran the distance in 29 minutes 28.2 seconds. Then Viljo Heino of Finland shaved it to 29:27.2 and finally Zatopek brought it down to 29:21.2.

Reps Work Out For McKechnie Cup Tilt

The Victoria Crimson Tide rugby team, which opens the 1950 McKechnie Cup English rugby series against Univercity of British Columbia at Macdonald Park on Saturday, will hold two practices at the James Bay enclosure this week, weather permitting.

The workouts are scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday nights at 7.30. If weather conditions are unfavorable the practices will be held indoors.

New York Central Railway was begun as a large railway combine as far back as 1868 and is now one of the largest railways in America.

Sunday Crash Drivers Cheat Death

Five-ton Island Freight Ltd. truck was bowled over by one-ton navy panel truck in Island Highway smash-up Sunday, but neither of the drivers was injured seriously.

* * *

Big Truck Turned Over In Collision With Navy Vehicle

A cut eye and a twisted knee were the only injuries received by drivers of two trucks which crashed in a spectacular collision Sunday morning at 8.45 on the Island Highway near View Royal.

T. (Andy) Lomas, 2569 Prior Street, suffered the knee injury, and Ernest Atherton, 1422 Gladstone Avenue, the cut eye.

Lomas was the driver of a five-ton Island Freight Ltd. truck which turned on its side in the smash-up, and Atherton was at the wheel of a one-ton Navy panel delivery truck which crashed the bigger vehicle.

DAMAGE HEAVY

Damage was heavy. It is expected it will amount to $1,200 in the case of the freight truck, which was traveling empty to Sooke on a daily milk run. Front end of the Navy truck was stove in.

Const. Bud Godfrey of the B.C. police highway patrol said the Navy truck was going toward town when it skidded on a curve in the highway and hit the outbound freight truck on the left side near the front.

"It caught the big truck just right to turn it over into a ditch at the side of the road," the patrol officer reported.

Atherton was treated for the eye injury at the navy hospital and was released. Lomas did not require medical attention.

MINOR ACCIDENTS

Two minor traffic accidents Sunday were reported by Sgt. Eric Elwell of the Saanich police. Both occurred on Quadra Street, and both were attributed to slippery pavement.

Four cars were involved in one Sunday night at Quadra and Reynolds Road. A car driven by Stanley Lloyd, 1564 Gladstone, stopped at the intersection. Two others pulled up behind. A fourth was unable to stop before crashing the third car.

In the other, at Quadra and McKenzie Avenue, at 1.40 in the afternoon, two cars skidded together. Fenders were crumpled.

Arena Commission Names Mentioned

The names of former alderman Ed Williams and Publicity Commissioner George I. Warren are being mentioned around the City Hall in talk of filling a vacancy on the Memorial Arena Commission.

D. N. W. Grubb is resigning from the commission and City Council will name his successor soon.

Mr. Grubb, a bank manager, is moving to Vancouver.

It is expected the council will receive a recommendation from the commission regarding the appointment.

It is understood Mr. Williams is favored for the position in view of his knowledge of the arena. While a member of City Council last year he served as chairman of the council's arena committee.

Six Loggers Safe After Being Feared Lost Off Island

Frank Whittaker of Duncan and five other men, who Sunday night were reported missing in waters off Salt Spring Island, turned up at Fulford Harbor this morning safe and sound.

Fears for the six, employed by Whittaker Bros.' logging outfit on Pender Island, arose when they failed to show up at Ganges Sunday evening after setting out from Cowichan Bay at 2 that afternoon.

By eight Sunday night B.C. police in the area were alerted and Philip Whittaker, Frank's brother and partner, set out from Duncan in another boat to search for the missing six. He was unable to find any trace of them or their 32-foot cabin boat, the Dora Belle.

Skipper Earl Rockwood of the B.C. police boat at Ganges was preparing a search of his own this morning when word came through that the missing Dora Belle had arrived at Fulford with all hands aboard.

At Fulford, Frank explained the Dora Belle developed engine trouble midway between Cowichan Bay and Salt Spring and that the six aboard rowed the boat into shelter of a cove while repairs were undertaken over night.

I.W.A. Plans Strike If Demands Not Met

NANAIMO (CP)—Definite warning was served on the lumber operators of British Columbia by the Internationd Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) convention here at its closing session Sunday that unless a union shop is granted in the new agreement and wages are increased, a strike vote will be asked.

The resolution reads that if no favorable satisfaction with the employers is reached "upon opening negotiations, we immediately comply with the Conciliation and Arbitration Act, take a strike vote, and if no contract is reached by June 15, we strike."

It is the most important of many resolutions put through by the three-day convention. It secured a unanimous endorsement.

Another resolution puts a ban on district officers of the I.W.A. becoming elected to provincial legislatures or the Commons and remaining in union office.

It agrees that officers, on securing political nomination, should be granted leave of absence without pay, unless they are otherwise authorized by their locals or the district executive board.

The convention also called on the federal government to implement the "Green Book" recommendation and provide assistance to unemployed employables whose unemployment insurance has expired.

COST $200,000

Carl Winn, international secretary-treasurer, in an address, said it had cost the international union $200,000 to defeat the attempted disaffiliation in October, 1948. He again pledged that it would be prepared to give all it had to defeat Communism.

Adolph Germer, international director of organization, said the best way to defeat Communism was to do a little better job.

Pen Baskin, president of the Vancouver Labor Council (C.C.L.) charged that Hon. Gordon Wismer, former Minister of Labor, had broken his promise that a round table conference on wages and conditions would be called. Hon. John Cates, the new minister, had undertaken to meet the various groups separately, but Mr. Baskin claimed he had been in the Legislature when Mr. Wismer had promised the round table talks which, he claimed, would make better progress.

On Saturday some district leaders attacked the power of the B.C. Labor Relations Board to decide upon jurisdiction.

Mr. Cates said harmonious labor-management relations were essential to further development in British Columbia. He appealed for team work "without bitterness or rancor."

Advertising Leader Morgan Eastman Dies

TORONTO (CP) — Morgan Eastman, 59, widely-known Canadian advertising man, died in a hospital Sunday night following a cerebral hemorrhage.

He was vice-president of McConnell, Eastman & Company, advertising agency, and president of the Canadian Association of Advertising Agencies.

In 1914-15 he was manager of the W. R. Magway department store at Vernon, B.C., and in 1918 he organized the Eastman Advertising Company at Vancouver, B.C., disposing of that business in 1931.

One Dead, Four Hurt In Washington Crash

SEATTLE (AP)—One man was killed and four persons injured Sunday night in an accident involving an eastbound cross-state passenger bus, an oil tanker and an automobile four miles west of Easton, the State Patrol reported.

The dead man was identified as Elmer Anderson, 34 of Stattle.

A deputy coroner in Cle Elum said the accident occurred when the car apparently tried to pass the bus on the snow-covered highway despite the approach of the tanker.

Also hospitalized were John Rosenau of Belfair; his wife, Beatrice, and Everett and Helen Rosenau, both of Hayward, B.C. It was not known whether they were passengers in the bus or the automobile.

Elmer Howard Brown, 1134 Rockland Avenue, was remanded to Thursday for sentence on a theft charge when he pleaded guilty before Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today.

Accident Damage Heavy In Some Mishaps Today

Numerous collisions on the snow-covered city roads this morning kept personnel of the traffic division of the city police continually on the go. There were no injuries.

A car parked west of Government on Fort Street, owned by George C. Johnson, 211 Wilson Street, with emergency brakes on, slid down to the bottom of the street and collided with a Buick owned by the B.C. Cement Company and parked on Wharf. About $300 damage was done.

Dr. T. W. A. Gray's car was in collision with a parked truck on Pandora east of Cook Street. About $400 damage was done to the doctor's car, police reported.

A collision at Queens Avenue and Quadra Street between cars driven by Ben Fairclough, 543 Toronto Street, and Alfred Barr, 977 Cloverdale Avenue, caused a total of $200 damage, police said.

Rain Forecast To Clear Snow

The surprise snowfall which greeted citizens when they awoke this morning apparently is to be short-lived as rising temperatures during the day turned the three inches of powdery snow to slush in most areas.

Rain was forecast by this evening to wash away any snow that was left, but a low temperature of 30 degrees predicted for tonight by the weatherman may give motorists and pedestrians still another spell of treacherous thoroughfares which have plagued them more than usual during the past three and a half weeks.

Unofficial downtown temperature at noon was 36 degrees and a grey sky indicated the meteorologists might have called this evening's conditions correctly. The overcast usually prevents temperatures from dropping much below freezing in this area.

STARTED DEC. 19

The snow has not entirely disappeared from lower Vancouver Island since Dec. 19. On that date, eight inches were recorded at the Gonzales Hill observatory, and close to a foot fell in many sections of the city.

Last remnants of the Dec. 31 fall which blanketed the coast were practically gone when the overnight fall came unexpectedly. At most, light snow flurries were all that Victoria had anticipated.

The city and close-in areas were worst hit. Further out, only a light fall was recorded.

Roads on most of the island were hazardous, with police advising use of chains on highways. Six to eight inches of snow fell on the Malahat during the night, covering a thick coating of ice.

Nanaimo and Port Alberni had three inches on the ground by this morning. A six-inch fall at Duncan came before midnight Sunday night.

Inconvenience caused by slippery roads and slush-filled gutters is always offset a mite by the beauty of a fresh fall of snow, as this picture looking south down the Government Street causeway towards the Parliament Buildings indicates.

"Visibility zero" could easily be the impression the owner of this car received this morning when he stepped into his car, which was outside during the overnight snowfall in Victoria. Task of clearing off snow-covered automobiles, then driving at reduced speed over slippery roads, made many citizens late for work this morning.

Ask $4,000 Damages

A breach of contract suit against Mr. and Mrs. David Jackson Young, owners of the Wilcuma Country House Hotel, Cobble Hill, opened in Supreme Court today before Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarline.

The plaintiffs, Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Gedge and daughter, Beverley, formerly of Ontario, are seeking approximately $4,000 against the hotel owners for allegedly failing to live up to the terms of a verbal agreement, for loss of wages and for being evicted from the hotel.

Here Today, Gone Tomorrow—Maybe

Victorians, like the three above, are getting used to working on the business end of a snow shovel these days. This morning the implements, which normally gather dust in local basements, were called into service after being idle only a few days. The weatherman predicts the overnight fall of three inches of powdery snow will be mostly washed away by rain expected by this evening—at least, Pete Dunnaway, George Pilling and Charles Powell, from left to right in this picture, hope so.

Acheson Would Aid World By Opening U.S. Markets

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Acheson has given an urgent, top priority in the State Department to development of a new line of attack on the world dollar shortage, it was learned at the week-end.

The conviction is spreading among some of his top advisers that more billions for European and other foreign assistance will be required after the end of the Marshall Plan in 1952.

Some officials now say privately that the United States probably will have to consider continuing foreign assistance for an indefinite number of years. Eventually this idea may take the form of an administration proposal to Congress.

Acheson's personal preference, it is reported, would be to assure other countries of the dollars they need to buy American goods by further opening up U.S. markets for their products. It is likely he will throw his main emphasis on a traiff-cutting, import-expanding policy.

But his associates, and presumably Acheson himself, regard that as a slow process, beset by political controversy at home and unlikely to reach full development before the Marshall Plan ends.

What the State Department experts are reported to be convinced of is this: Unless the United States and allied countries begin preparing shortly for the end of the Marshall Plan, the "cold war" gains of the last two years may easily be lost.

Europe's newly-won economic stability, they argue, may give way if its U.S. dollar props are withdrawn completely; the line against Communism may sag, and the American economy itself wobble badly under the impact of falling exports.

'Hopalong' Mobbed

NEW YORK (AP) — Cowboy film star Bill Boyd came to town Saturday to promote a comic strip in the New York Daily News, and Police Inspector Herbert Golden estimated 350,000 persons turned out to greet the actor. The name of the comic strip is "Hopalong Cassidy."

B.C.E. To Provide Power To Lytton

The provincial government has placed its stamp of approval on the proposed sale of the Lytton Electric Light Co. Ltd. to the B.C. Electric Co. Ltd.

The sale had already been approved by the Public Utilities Commission and then went to the provincial cabinet which must endorse the actions of the commission. The commission has already issued a certificate of public convenience and necessity, authorizing the B.C.E. to operate the service.

The first European university was established at Salerno, Italy, in the ninth century.

GET DOWN TO BRASS TACKS

SEVERAL WEEKS AGO, ON THE FRONT page of this newspaper, we published an article by a well-known medical practitioner on the general subject of legal tests for drunken driving. The author of this particular thesis obviously knew he was, metaphorically speaking, treading on thin ice. But he had the courage of his convictions and said precisely what he meant and endeavored to argue what ought to be done about it.

Strangely enough, although more or less serious accidents are occurring daily on the streets of the Greater Victoria area and elsewhere—frequently accountable to an unfortunate propensity to try to mix alcohol with gasoline—public reaction to the article in question has been more or less negligible. What, then, ought to be done? Surely the law-abiding citizens of this community will not content themselves with the continuation of a condition such as the medical man in question outlined in his article. They will not content themselves with this condition because they realize the urgent necessity of taking such action as may result in a logical solution of a problem which, as it seems to us, boils down to a conflict between the medical profession and the legal profession.

In other words, since this vital matter should be considered an important issue in which the general public should take a practical interest, it seems to us that the time has arrived for the City Council—in conjunction with the Police Commission—to consider a modus operandi that might reconcile the legal and medical points of view. We say that because so long as the two professions are at variance, so long will it be difficult for the guardians of the law in all its ramifications to discover a solution for a problem of so many complications.

Therefore, our suggestion to Mayor George and his colleagues on the aldermanic board is that they devote at least one of their official sessions to consideration of a proposal to the Legislature to initiate and pass enabling legislation to permit the application of scientific tests for drunkenness to suspected persons involved in automobile accidents. Only by some such legal sanction can the problem be put on a practical basis that will ensure punishment of the guilty and restraint of the potential wrongdoer.

NO CRITICS ALLOWED!

THE DESIRE OF SOCIALIST PLANNERS to have every aspect of living neatly tucked away in its pigeonhole, with a regulation to govern it, is perhaps the distinguishing mark of the technique of this form of political philosophy. A law for everything and everything under a law, to parody an older aphorism, might well stand as the guiding maxim of the movement. Equally true, of course, is the fact that anything which tends to upset the regularity and decorum of affairs is, viewed with the utmost distaste by the Socialist entrenched in governmental authority. Criticism becomes a subversive mental activity destructive of the national effort—a preliminary concept of the Communist attitude that criticism of Communist government and its bureaucracy is outright sabotage of the state.

This view of Socialist characteristics has been borne out by several recent occurrences in Britain, where only the traditional demand of the common man for the right to criticize when and where he will has prevented more than one bureaucratic attempt to stifle unfavorable opinions. There comes to mind in this connection the incident in which the National Coal Board raised a sharp protest against the implications of a current London stage success, "Castle in the Air." The show concerned a gentleman whose large country house had been taken over by the state coal authorities as a rest home for miners, and was replete with witty jibes and humorous references that proved popular with the public, but which could be described as nothing more, in the words of one reviewer, than "cheerful nonsense." Stung by some of the lines, the National Coal Board stood on its dignity, ordered the play reformed and threatened legal action. The answer, of course, was that the play had received the Lord Chamberlain's necessary permit, and the board could go chase itself.

Similar was the official Labor Government reaction to the propaganda campaigns being waged by some large British business firms against nationalization. A cartoon figure, Mr. Cube, has made his appearance with slogans to encourage public sentiment against state control of the sugar industry. Syrup advertising advises people to keep the "S" out of "Tate and Lyle." Protests quickly came from the Government benches in the Commons, but a convenient method of silencing such "subversive" sentiments has not yet been devised. Another case of bureaucratic fumbling involved the recent decision of a British Food Ministry official that since sherry contains no dairy products, the names "Bristol Cream" and "Bristol Milk," when applied to a well-known wine firm's output, were misleading and must be dropped forthwith. Completely overlooked was the fact that the names had been in common usage since the 17th century, and were even mentioned in the diary of Samuel Pepys. The public outcry against this interference in established custom brought a withdrawal of the Food Ministry order and a red-faced admission that "no one but an imbecile would connect sherry with the product of a cow."

A little more serious in tone, however, was the recent outburst of Sir Stafford Cripps, the accomplished economic expert of the Labor Government, against the habit of the British press of offering criticism on public affairs. As interpreted by Sir Stafford, "there can seldom have been a period when the majority of the press have set out to mislead and confuse the people of this country as they have done over the past few months." Apart from the Socialist minister's calm assumption that any press opinion that does not agree with his ideas is designed to "mislead and confuse" the public, the absurdity of such a statement—that more than half of Britain's 144 reputable daily, Sunday and evening papers would "set out" to achieve such a purpose—comes ill from a man of cabinet calibre. As the London Economist observes: "It sounds too much like criticizing the rules to excuse defeat; and the impression that ministers create by their constant carping against the press is simply that they are getting rattled." But that seems to be something the tidy-minded planners cannot understand. And when a regime begins to take itself too seriously, it's days—as far as an unawed British public is concerned—are numbered.

TO EACH HIS OWN

WITH ITS OWN ERUDITION AND THE customary suave plausibility it assumes when dealing with the coast climate, the Winnipeg Free Press has put forward the suggestion that the current winter here "promotes what we vaguely call national unity, when the westernmost people of Canada see at first hand how the rest of the nation lives during a considerable part of the year."

That, in the vernacular, is pure malarky. Victorians, used to their sunshine and flowers, do not "see at first hand how the rest of the nation lives during a considerable part of the year." They see snow, certainly. But they do not see, except in isolated instances, the effective measures by which less climatically fortunate Canadians protect themselves against the rigors of winter. A citizen of British Columbia's capital, shivering in a light raincoat as his oxfords nestle down below the snow surface, is not moved to a feeling of unity and fellowship by the sight of a prairie visitor, garbed in an inch-thick high-collared coat, heavy fur cap and ear muffs, and shod in warm, moisture-proof high boots. That doesn't make for unity. That creates resentful envy.

No, the spectacle of Canada, all one and comfy under an unbroken blanket of snow, makes a nice literary picture, but it is phony. We like our "hunk of Canada" as it should be—green and flower-filled. Being temporary brothers in adversity does not make us more Canadian. And we would feel better disposed to Winnipeg and other points if they would keep winter where it belongs—a considerable distance east of the coast.

BETTER QUARTERS

APPARENTLY REPRESENTING AN IMplementation of some of the recommendations of the commission that recently studied conditions in the Royal Canadian Navy—and at any rate well in the spirit of the commission's findings—the reconditioning of the destroyer H.M.C.S. Sioux, now nearing completion at Yarrows Ltd., is of a nature to excite comment among Navy men throughout Canada. The purpose of the changes in accommodation has been to reconstruct the living quarters in a style more in keeping with the comfortable facilities found aboard American naval vessels—a move which represents a wide departure from the traditional grin-and-bear-it atmosphere of British ships of war.

Thus, the bunk and cafeteria system has replaced hammocks and ration-drawing aboard the Sioux. Men will sleep in beds which fold back against the wall when not in use. They will line up for meals instead of having one man from each mess draw food for all. Eating and living quarters, spruced up and spacious, will be separate from sleeping areas. A much pleasanter environment is expected to result. In undergoing these changes, the Sioux is making history. She is the first Canadian or British destroyer to offer such sleeping and messing facilities for crewmen, and the effects on morale and shipboard harmony no doubt will be closely watched.

It is not to be supposed, of course, that the real purpose of this fighting ship has been obscured by the innovations. Security considerations prevent publication of additions to the Sioux's armament, but reports indicate that the very latest in scientific navigation and detection devices form a part of her working tools. Improvements in the living conditions aboard should further increase the efficiency of the vessel as an offensive and defensive weapon.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP from Washington

PANDORA'S BOX II

THE CASE FOR launching another Manhattan District Project, in order to build a "super-bomb," seems at first hearing like a Walpurgis Night dream of total destruction. Yet this case is being seriously made, at this moment, by important personalities on the highest governmental level. The worst nightmares have a way of coming true, nowadays. The essential arguments must therefore be set down.

In brief, it is theoretically feasible to build a hydrogen bomb with something like 1,000 times the force of the uranium-plutonium bomb that fell on Hiroshima. It may cost anywhere from $2 to $4 billions, to build such a bomb in the shortest possible space of time. The real issue in debate—a bitter commentary on the state of the world—is whether such bombs can be surely delivered to their proper targets.

TO BE BLUNT about it, the vital centres of the Soviet Union are the obvious potential targets, whether for the hydrogen bomb of the future, or for the existing stockpile of American uranium-plutonium bombs. Great distances, uncertain topography and other factors will always make it extremely difficult to hit targets in Russia with reasonable accuracy. And the chief attraction of the hydrogen bomb is that it will reduce the premium on occuracy in any bombing attack.

This is simply because such a bomb should theoretically devastate an area of from 60 to 100 square miles, in one ghastly detonation. Hence it should transform what would be a wide miss, even with a uranium-plutonium bomb, into a direct hit consuming a whole city. Even for conventional bombing, this is crucially important. Furthermore, its importance may later be increased very greatly, by the development of long-range guided missiles.

PROVIDED A PILOTLESS aircraft is the type selected, it has been possible to build the airframe of a long-range missile at any time since the war. The most talked-about design is a stripped-down, pilotless jet bomber capable of several thousand miles of flight, at just sub-sonic speeds and at very high altitudes. How to guide such a missile has always been the question.

In the last year, however, the basic obstacle to long range missile guidance has been successfully surmounted. As was reported in this space a "non-precessable" gyroscope has been designed at M.I.T. This almost miraculous instrument is simply a gyroscope whose accuracy is not disturbed by friction. Because it is dependably stable, it provides the long-sought "brain" for missile guidance systems.

THE NEW GYROSCOPE can, for example, form the basis of a mechanism that will control a missile during thousands of miles of flight by automatic celestial navigation. Equally, it can be married to the radar target locater that will send the missile home in the last stage of its long course. And while these, or other, guidance methods can hardly achieve pinpoint hits, they should bring the missiles quite near enough to their targets, if the war heads are hydrogen bombs.

Already, therefore, fleets of inter-continental guided missiles, carrying hydrogen bombs, are expected in certain authoritative quarters to be the strategic attack force of the future. With all due allowance for inevitable disappointments, some such development is certainly feasible in theory. Those who expect theory to be translated into practice are the advocates of an immediate special effort to build a hydrogen bomb.

THE OPPONENTS of such an effort, on the other hand, are sharply critical of these lurid visions of the future. They do not attack the underlying theory, although they note in passing that the present U.S. chaotic research and development program is unlikely to achieve the sort of result outlined above. Their criticism rests, rather, on their belief that in air warfare, the defence is now being developed even more rapidly than the offence.

Within the past 14 months, American strategic air capabilities have already been materially reduced, by the appearance of an excellent Soviet jet fighter and the beginning of a Soviet air warning net. Piloted and pilotless aircraft alike are already threatened by the prototype of an effective anti-aircraft guided missile.

A COMMITTEE OF THE government's highest scientific advisors has therefore been wisely chosen, to study the current desirability of a great hydrogen project, just as President Conant and Dr. Vannevar Bush studied this question immediately after the war. On what falls within their province, the findings of the scientists should be final. Unfortunately, however, not even the greatest scientists can resolve the other, far deeper and graver issues involved in this secret debate within the government. And these also must be examined, in a subsequent report.

Surveying The Ruins

Revolt Of The Guinea Pigs

By JOSEPH LISTER RUTLEDGE

ELEVEN days after New Zealand had ended the fourteen-year dominance of its labor-welfare government, Australia went to the polls with a similar purpose and result.

SUDDEN REVERSAL

What was behind this sudden reversal of opinion in two countries that had gone far enough along the road to complete socialism to assess its net benfits? An Auckland, New Zealand, newspaperman put the whole thing in a striking phrase. It was, he said, "the revolt of the guinea pigs."

The participants in the great experiment, the human guinea pigs who were the trial animals, took a good look at the best results yet achieved and decided that they preferred freedom to political handouts.

No one argued that the people of New Zealand were not well off. Their standard of living was high. But home-owners and small businessmen and farmers could not understand how this entailed state determination of how and on what terms they might dispose of their property. There was little unemployment and less want.

But wage and salary workers were on a dead level. In the words of one reporter: "A ship's cook often earned more than the ship's captain." Generally good wages took no account of skills or abilities, or the will to achieve.

So incentive died, and the young and eager were leaving for lands where they could match their abilities in competition with their fellows. For those who remained, taxes were biting deeply even into good wages.

OPEN CAMPAIGN

In Australia R. G. Menzies, former premier and head of the coalition, fought an open campaign to outlaw the Communist elements in the country. Agreeing with Labor Premier Chifley that if private monopoly ranged itself against public interest it deserved to be socialized, he coupled this with an insistent challenge that: "Society needs the driving force of full individuality, and reward for courage and enterprise."

It was a great day for the guinea pigs. They went to the polls and gave this doctrine their wholehearted support.

The same week General Dwight D. Eisenhower added his word when addressing a St. Andrew's Society dinner. "Somewhere along the line," he said, "we have lost some respect for mere thrift and independence. In Jefferson's day a liberal believed that the best-government is the least government."

SECURE SLAVES

He went farther than that: "Security, in the sense that we may live in slothful indolence and ease and stagnation, can never be achieved unless we do it as slaves of someone who directs us . . . I have seen around the world many, many white crosses under which lie people of all our races—they are there because they believed that there was something more than merely assuring ourselves that we weren't going to be hungry at 67."

These are the words for guinea pigs to keep in their hearts.

Europe Waits For British Elections

By FLORA LEWIS, London Observer Foreign News Service, from The Hague

THE FINANCE ministers of the five Finebel countries have tentatively scheduled a Paris meeting for Jan. 11 but nothing concrete is expected to come from their efforts at economic integration until after the British general elections.

NEW FACTOR

This is a new factor in their deliberations. It enters in this way. At the last Paris meeting of experts from France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands, and Luxembourg to prepare the way for ministerial agreement, a sharp cleavage arose over the participation of Western Germany in the group.

The Dutch insisted on German inclusion as an essential condition of their own membership, and even then insisted that the door be kept open for Britain to join. Belgium supported the Dutch, though rather tepidly, and intense diplomatic negotiations have since been going on between the two, as a result of which Holland claims to have secured firm Belgium backing. The French, with Italian acquiescence, have almost as flatly opposed Germany's inclusion.

The only way out, in the view of officials, would be to secure a reversal of Britain's refusal to participate. This would require a wide revision of terms of co-operation and make German membership both less mandatory with the Dutch and less objectionable to the French.

So far Britain has kept aloof but the continental negotiators, probably because of their inability to come forward, have now begun to feel that Britain's present stand may be due to the coming election campaign and that it may relax afterwards.

POLICY CHANGE?

They are, therefore, reluctant at this juncture to make extravagant concessions among themselves which could perhaps be avoided if Britain were a party to the negotiations. Furthermore, as one official said: "We don't see how we can take the risk of cutting ourselves off from Britain, and that would be unavoidable when British policy might change a month or two later."

Playing for time is, of course, difficult under the continuous American pressure for specific progress which would be displayed before Congress. However there has been evidence, according to officials here, that the American position has begun to swing away from E.C.A. Administrator Paul Hoffman's recent encouragement to small regional efforts at integration back to the view that the goal of co-operation cannot be achieved without larger teams.

In addition to Germany's role, the British question-mark is the vital factor in another of the main points of contention among the continental negotiators: whether steps toward integration should proceed with the emphasis on the freeing of money movements or on the freeing of trade. Of the two main protagonists, the French favor the former and Holland the latter.

SECOND COURSE

Although, in the absence of any currency agreement so far, Britain has in fact taken the lead in following the second course by relaxing many quota restrictions, her financial position would make her prefer the first course, with safeguards to ensure against any great unbalance of payments within the grouping. If Britain were to enter, this view would probably prevail with, it is believed here, full American support.

In the mantime, the France-Italy-Benelux talks are not expected to produce much, except perhaps the interim report which E.C.A. has requested by Jan. 15.

Home Market

Montreal Star

We are hearing quite a bit these days of the loss of markets we have come to rely on as outlets for our farm production, and of the difficulties that face us as a result of our inconvenient abundance. There will be no easy way to adjust ourselves to the situation, no single solution to the problem. New markets, many of them, will be needed. It occurs to us that the search for them, like charity, might well begin at home.

It may seem paradoxical that with more food than we know what to do with we should still be importing it. The fact of such imports suggests that our home market would repay more careful cultivation.

Crystal Ball Season

New York Times

In the brief interval between Christmas and New Year's it is customary for leaders in industry and in public affairs to gaze into the coming months, and beyond, and to announce what they see there. Whether it is because forecasters are filled at this time with holiday spirit, or because men never lose hope that tomorrow will be better, their prophecies for the most part are cheering. After all, it costs no more to give the new year a good send-off than it does to pelt it with a barrage of dark predictions and, anyway, as mankind steps bravely forth into a brand-new year—and, this time, into a new decade—it needs every encouragement it can get.

GLOBAL SURVEY

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

FAILURE of Britain and the United States to find ground for common action regarding recognition of Communist China has created a situation which many observers regard as unfortunate. It could have far-reaching results.

Marshal Stalin must be smiling broadly to see these two old allies, who have been leaders in the cold war against Communism, now split over this Chinese issue, with Britain granting Red China full recognition while the U.S. withholds recognition indefinitely.

Moscow can't be blamed if it logs another victory.

However, while considerable feeling has been engendered on both sides of the Atlantic, one thing is sure: Britain and the United States aren't going to swap blows over this issue.

The Washington State Department holds that British recognition of the Chinese Communist government doesn't mean a split with the United States over basic aims for a China free of foreign domination. The split is over the question of recognition itself.

REALISTIC ATTITUDE

Naturally a lot of folk are asking just why Britain should insist on recognition immediately. Was she impelled by principle or expediency?

Well, the answer seems to be that she has acted on what she regards as the realistic attitude and in order to protect her own vital interests. In this connection Washington, while having strongly maintained that early recognition of the Chinese Reds wasn't advisable, has at the same time taken into account Britain's interest in safeguarding her vast Chinese trade and her big colonial interests, including Hongkong.

Washington administration leaders were reported to be framing a policy aimed at driving a wedge between the Chinese people and Communist Russia. This policy would envisage a firm friendship for the Chinese people while leaving the way open for eventual recognition of the Communist regime.

Old-time ball players are likely turning over in their graves at the thought of major league teams hiring psychologists to put ball players "in the proper frame of mind." NEW JOB FOR OLD TIMER

The Times of London

The unscientific layman who is not so young as he used to be wanders like a simple savage through this magical world. No Mohican, first or last, could be more bewildered than he is by the jet-powered traffic, the televised march of progress. It is all a colossal, confusing, conjuring trick to him, and he gave up trying long ago to work it out. Yet now and then he is cheered by a glimpse of the familiar and the comprehensible—an old and simple but still useful trick, an old-fashioned contraption which has never gone out or perhaps has come in again. He will be, too, when he discovers that the hour-glass, though gone from the pulpit and disappearing from the cottage, has won a place among the dictaphones on the desk of the business "executive."

This last piece of news may smack of the incredible, but it is no invention. The old world is constantly redressing the balance of the new, and has done it again. A firm of ice cream manufacturers, to encourage its departmental heads to keep trunk calls short, has equipped them with three-minute egg-timers, which trickle beside the telephone. It seems a homely old remedy for a fairly new complaint, and perhaps it will do something to heal the breach between the progressive "fans" of the telephone and its conservative detractors.

Cowichan Residents Protest Assessment

COBBLE HILL — Assessment notices which in some cases reveal increases on property up to 50 per cent will be protested by a group of taxpayers in the South Cowichan district.

They are considering the possibility of asking for an assessment equalization board to bring assessment in the unorganized southern area more in line with those of the nearby organized districts.

They feel that with a substantial raise in assessment, taxes will naturally go up and the southern portion of School District No. 65 will be called upon to bear the larger part of the costs for the school district.

White, Loose Clothing Best If Atomic Warfare Comes

WASHINGTON (AP)—People dressed in white, loose-fitting clothes would stand the best chance of surviving flash burns in an atomic war, the government says.

It advances that idea in a report graphically detailing the medical effects of the atomic bomb.

The report is being sent to the governors of all states for guidance in the development of civil defence, presidential assistant John R. Steelman said.

The 30-page survey of "Medical Aspects of Atomic Weapons" was prepared by the Department of Defence and the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, based on exhaustive studies of the devastation and after-effects caused by the two American atomic bombs dropped on Japan during the Second World War.

LIMITS SEEN

The report, in some degree, discounts the value of atomic weapons bigger than those which struck Hiroshima and Nagasaki in Japan.

It says:

"The Hiroshima and Nagasaki bombs caused total destruction and serious damage to buildings—death and injury to people—for two miles from the point at which the bomb was set off. The extreme limit was about four miles.

"More powerful bombs could cause a wider area of damage, but very great increases in explosive force are necessary in order to accomplish relatively small increases in the area of damage.

"For example, it would be necessary to double the power of the bomb in order to increase the radius of severe damage and injury by one-fourth, from 2 to 2½ miles."

DEATH DEALING WEAPON

But the report declares "a single atomic bomb of the type dropped on Nagasaki and Hiroshima during the war can lay waste the heart of a large city and injure and kill great numbers of people.

"In the two Japanese cities, over 100,000 people were killed and nearly as many were injured."

The report says white clothing "tended to reflect the radiant heat, darker clothing to absorb heat" in the Japanese bombings. Thus, it says, color has "a protective effect."

"Tight clothing was less protection than loose," the report continues, "and burns were inflicted at elbows and where straps crossed the shoulders, for example, while other places where clothing was loose were protected or less severely burned."

Aside from the mass slaughter inflicted directly by the explosion of an A-bomb itself, the report stresses the dangers from both radiant heat, and, in some cases, from radioactive contamination.

"It would be unrealistic to prepare for fewer than 40,000 to 50,000 severely burned persons from a single atomic explosion," it says.

Bob Hope Injured As Car Jumps Road

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP)—Bob Hope was injured Saturday night when his car skidded off a road during a rainstorm and overturned 16 miles south of here.

The comedian, who was driving, and Fred Williams, one of his gag-writers, both were hurled from the machine. They were returning from a week-end in Palm Springs.

Hope, taken with Williams to Riverside Community Hospital, said:

"I feel fine. The doc says my shoulder is dislocated, but he may be underplaying it."

The car rammed into a walnut tree beside the highway. Hope and Williams were brought here by a motorist.

Williams was treated for bruises. After Hope's shoulder was X-rayed, his arm was placed in a sling. Later both were given permission to leave and departed for Hollywood.

Farm Income Shows Loss For Last Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian farmers had a cash income of $2,409,165,000 from the sale of farm products last year, the Bureau of Statistics has reported.

Their income was slightly lower than the 1948 peak of $2,449,900,000 but well above the 1947 total of $1,962,276,000.

The drop in 1949 income was partly the result of federal marketing of coarse grains. Since Aug. 1, 1949, farmers have received only an initial payment of the sale of coarse grains. They will receive final settlement later.

Mercy Death Argument Widens Following Doctor's Action

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Shall civilization's first law, "Thou shalt not kill," be modified to ease pain?

If so, what murderous tricks may it lead to? Will the state be allowed to say how long you shall live? How can doctors know when mercy should end your life?

These questions are again sweeping both sides of the Atlantic, as they have done repeatedly for centuries.

This time the cause is unusual, a doctor taking a life to ease pain. Usually it is done by one who loves the sick person most.

Whether or not he meant to, Dr. Hermann N. Sander, Manchester, N.H., put the question up to the world when he wrote on the chart of Mrs. Abbie Borroto, 59, dying of cancer, that he had injected air into her veins.

It is charged that the air killed her. Dr. Sander made the fact official record. He has been indicted for murder.

There are rumors that doctors often give overdoses to end lives of pain, but they never have been verified.

Now, for the first time, organizations favoring mercy deaths are banding together to arouse sentiment to modify the laws of murder. Proponents of euthanasia—mercy death—are about to ask the United Nations to include the right of merciful death in the Declaration of human rights.

This right is to be limited to incurable sufferers, to be carried out only with their consent and only with legal safeguards.

STARTED IN 1516

The modern euthanasia idea started in 1516 in Sir Thomas More's Kingdom of Utopia. The first organized mercy death work did not begin until the 1930s. In Britain the Euthanasia Legalization Society was organized. Soon afterward in the United States the Euthanasia Society of America was organized. This and the British society are the only two of their kind. Both are small.

The American society is planning a mass meeting in New Hampshire to sponsor legislation making euthanasia legal. The society is opposed to mercy deaths until legalized.

Legal history of this century is that most of the mercy killers are acquitted, or hung juries are followed by dropping the charges, or the accused go to mental institutions.

The American Council of Christian Churches has twice voted against euthanasia. The Roman Catholic Church stand against has been unwavering in opposition.

Name Changed

KARACHI (Reuter) — The Pakistan Parliament has unanimously decided that the province of West Punjab should in future be known as "The Punjab," the name of the original province divided between India and Pakistan in 1947. The Indian Parliament will soon discuss a bill intended to give the name of "The Punjab" to its province of East Punjab.

Cement Plant Being Built In Alberta

RED DEER, Alta. (CP)—The Western Cement Ltd. plant now being constructed 45 miles north of Red Deer will cost an estimated $2,500,000, it was learned here. It will be financed by both Canadian and U.S. capital.

When production is in full swing the plant is expected to have a capacity of 2,000 barrels of cement per day.

Clay will be obtained at the plant site, limestone from the quarry at Nordegg, Alta., and gypsum from either Manitoba or British Columbia. The necessary water will be obtained from wells on the plant site and the 2,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas to be used daily will be obtained from the Northwestern Utilities Ltd.

Chemical analyses of the raw materials available indicate a very high grade of Portland cement will be produced, as well as special cements for use by the oil industry in Alberta.

Operations are expected to begin early next summer. The plant will employ 40 to 50 men.

WE COULD HAVE SHIPPED THEM SOME—These youngsters, David Christopher and Allen James Capson of Moncton, N.B., look disconsolate as a Christmas toboggan is "beached" on dry grass. Their plight was similar to that of other maritime youngsters, who had been faced with bare ground since a week before Christmas by mild temperatures and record-breaking heat. This week-end the weatherman corrected things and gave them six inches of snow. He could have given them the snow that fell on Victoria as well, and no one here would have objected.

HOLY THORN TREE BLOSSOMED ON EVE OF 'OLD CHRISTMAS'

Strangely enough, a certain kind of thorn tree has made me think of the calendar. This tree blossoms during the winter in England, and sometimes it is called the "holy thorn" because it has been known to blossom on the eve of "Old Christmas."

On the fourth day of the past January a crowd gathered in front of one of those trees, and with the help of flashlights watched it after night came on. The report was sent out that blossoms appeared on the tree while the people watched. It seemed like a miracle.

The fifth of January is given as the date for Old Christmas. The reason for that is the change which took place in England's calendar almost two centuries ago. Eleven days were left out in a certain year—1752—and this made the Christmas of that year come too early, as it seemed to many Englishmen. They counted ahead and set Jan. 5 as the date of "Old Christmas."

Old Christmas is, today, just a memory, and something to think of when we hear about the blooming of the holy thorn.

The Puritans in Great Britain should have credit for changing the calendar. They accepted the changes which had been made in the time of Pope Gregory, more than a century and a half before. Great Britain was very, very late in making those much-needed changes.

Before the Gregorian calendar was accepted, the Julian calendar had been used. The Julian plan provided too many leap year days, and it had failed to keep in step with the real passage of time. If it had been used for enough thousands of years, the month of December would have fallen in the middle of summer.

As it was, Pope Gregory left out 10 days. The British had to leave out 11 days because they had waited so long to make the change. On the night of Sept. 2, 1752, people in Great Britain went to sleep. When morning came, it was not the third of September but the fourteenth! What a long sleep it must have seemed to be!

The DOCTOR Says:

HORMONES HAVE MANY USES IN FIGHTING HUMAN AILMENTS

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

A hormone is a chemical substances which is produced in some organ or gland inside the body. Hormones are emptied directly into the blood stream and carried to other parts of the body where they produce some definite action.

Among the better known glands which produce hormones are the thyroid in the neck, the pancreas and adrenal glands in the abdomen, the pituitary in the head, and the sex glands.

The hormone of the thyroid has been available in crued form as thyroid extract for many years. Although the pure chemical has also been discovered, the crued extract is still generally used.

STOPPING DIABETES

The principal hormone of the pancreas is called insulin. When the secretion of this hormone is absent or insufficient, a person has diabetes. Insulin obtained from animal pancreas can be used. The discovery of insulin has prolonged the life of hundreds of thousands of people with diabetes.

The adrenal gland which lies next to the kidneys contains two hormones. The hormone obtained from the adrenal cortex is of value in Addison's disease, which comes from insufficient secretion of this part of the gland. Another hormone from the adrenal medulla is called epinephrine or adrenalin. This is useful to shrink the mucous membranes in colds and sinus trouble and to contract blood vessels and so slow up bleeding.

The pituitary gland, which lies at the base of the brain, secretes at least two hormones. One of them acts on certain kinds of muscles and is used extensively in childbirth. The other has a great deal to do with growth. Over-activity of this portion of the gland is believed to be responsible for certain disturbances of growth, such as is present in the so-called human giant, a condition called gigantism.

Constitution Changes Come Before Conference In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—A new attempt to find a suitable method to amend the constitution on matters within provincial jurisdiction will be made Tuesday when the heads of Canada's 11 governments meet in a Dominion-provincial conference.

The conference, called by Prime Minister St. Laurent, will start at 10.30 a.m. E.S.T. in the Commons chamber. Mr. St. Laurent, who will serve as chairman, is expected to lead off with a statement outlining the purposes of the conference. It is possible each of the 10 premiers will outline their views.

Reference possibly will be made to previous unsuccessful attempts to find a suitable formula for constitutional amendments on matters in the provincial field.

SINCE 1867

The constitution consists mainly of the British North America Act, passed by the United Kingdom Parliament in 1867 when the Canadian provinces decided to federate. The B.N.A. Act lists the rights and powers of the Dominion and the provincial governments.

Until recently the power to make any changes in the B.N.A. Act rested exclusively with the United Kingdom Parliament. At the recent session, the Canadian Parliament obtained from the United Kingdom the power to amend the constitution on most matters under federal jurisdiction.

Mr. St. Laurent announced then that the provinces would be brought together at a conference to discuss the possibility of transferring from the United Kingdom Parliament to the Canadian Parliament the power to make amendments to the constitution on matters within the provincial jurisdiction.

He stated the conference would not be asked to draw a line between matters under federal jurisdiction and matters under provincial jurisdiction. The conference will be asked whether it agrees the Canadian Parliament should have the power to amend the constitution on provincial matters. If the conference agrees, then it will be asked to work out a formula for making constitutional amendments.

The last attempt to work out a formula for constitutional amendments was made in 1935. That conference attempted to draw the line between things under federal jurisdiction and those under provincial jurisdiction. The governments failed to agree and the conference ended in failure.

EYES ON DUPLESSIS

Political observers plan to keep a close eye on Premier Duplessis of Quebec, a man who has constantly argued that the B.N.A. Act is a pact that cannot be changed without the consent of all the provinces. Mr. St. Laurent has taken an opposite view and has said that if Mr. Duplessis' theory was accepted any province could veto a constitutional change wanted by the majority.

Some observers have expressed belief that Duplessis will not accept any formula whereby a constitutional amendment could be made with the consent of two-thirds of the provinces representing 55 per cent of the population. Such a formula would give 10 provinces the power to abolish rights now held by the French-speaking people of Quebec.

The federal government does not plan to place any agenda before the conference and as a result subjects other than constitutional changes may be discussed.

Scottish Couple Honored On 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John Lynas were entertained at a surprise party in their home, 143 Bushby Street, Friday following the celebration of their silver wedding anniversary Jan. 5. Hostesses were Misses Margaret and Caroline Lynas, daughters of the honor guests. A corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses, a white carnation boutonniere and a silver tea service were presented to the couple with several other gifts.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, assisted by Miss Marjorie Forrest, and the tea table was centred with a two-tier cake decorated with "Happy 25th Anniversary."

Mr. James Black proposed a toast to the bride and groom of 25 years ago, responded to by Mr. Lynas.

During the evening a number of Scottish songs, in compliment to the Lynas family who came to Victoria a little more than two years ago from Glasgow, Scotland, were enjoyed by guests who included Mr. and Mrs. J. Petrie, Mr. and Mrs. J. Black, Mrs. Barclay, Mrs. McLean, and Miss Agnes Robinson.

Lived With Natives To Gain Rich Lore

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—A husband-and-wife team of anthropologists, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Berndt, "went native" for 18 months among the primitive tribes of Arnhem Land, in Australia's tropical north.

They lived on native food—fish, small game, yams and emu eggs. Their shelters were the bark huts or "humpies" of the Arnhem Lend aborigines.

But they brought back with them a collection of native carvings and a fund of aboriginal lore that have been ranked among the most remarkable anthropological finds of the century.

The carvings, which include statues, are the only carved bunan figures "in the round" to be brought out of Arnhem Land, which is more than 2,000 miles northwest of the Berndt home in Sydney. They were presented by the natives as tokens of trust and friendship. The Berndts returned gifts of flour, tea and sugar.

Husband and wife also travelled from one native camp to another, studying various tribal languages, ceremonials and religious customs.

Catherine Berndt is shy and modest. She dislikes city life and is looking forward to the next expedition which she and her husband plan to make early this year.

Calvin Wright Takes Bride On Southern Wedding Trip

Vancouver, Seattle, Tacoma, Portland and points south will be included in the wedding trip itinerary of Calvin Alexander Wright and his bride, the former Miss Jean Bernice Johnston.

The couple were married Saturday evening at 8 in Seventh Day Adventist Church by Pastor Hugh Campbell.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. J. E. Johnston, Swan River, Man., and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Wright, 1149 Lyall Street.

Bouquets of chysanthemums and asters formed the setting for the bride given in marriage by her uncle, William Thomson.

Her princess gown of ivory slipper satin had lily point sleeves, and sweetheart neckline. A coronet of rose point lace and sequins held her full-length veil of embroidered silk illusion net, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and heather.

Turquoise nylon satin fashioned the off-shoulder gown worn by Miss Maxine Johnston, her sister's bridal attendant. Her gloves and hat were of matching fabric, and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and carnations.

The groom was attended as best man by John Foxgord, and Ronald Ray with Gilbert Anderson seated guests.

Mrs. P. Reid played "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring" and during the signing of the register, Mrs. H. Sherratt sang "O Lord Most Holy."

Guests were received at Strathcona Hotel following the ceremony. Mrs. W. Thomson, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Wright, mother of the groom, assisted in receiving.

White candles were placed on either side of the three-tier wedding cake, and tall vases of chrysanthemums completed the decor.

L. Jackson proposed the toast to the bride.

When Mr. and Mrs. Wright left on honeymoon the bride donned a cocoa brown gabardine suit, teal blue topcoat, brown accessories, and corsage bouquet of gardenias.

They will return to make their home at 1069 Southgate Street.

First Meeting — XI Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, held its first meeting of the new year at the home of the chapter's director, Miss Nell Edwards. Dorothy Carr presided. The cultural program was conducted by Miss Joyce Richardson, with the assistance of Miss Rose Lee, the subject being "Voice and Vocabulary."

Joan Hatton Weds Ronald K. Salmon

Marriage vows were exchanged in St. Aidan's United Church, Victoria, by Joan Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hatton, Essex, Eng., and Ronald Kenneth Salmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Salmon of Victoria. The ceremony Dec. 31 was performed by Rev. T. G. Griffiths.

Metropolitan Women Raise $2,278; Increase Members

Annual reports read at Metropolitan United Women's Association meeting in the church schoolroom showed an active year in fellowship and financial effort.

During the year $2,278.96 was raised and it was noted that much of this sum was used to assist other church groups and welfare purposes.

Reports also noted a growing membership, divided into six groups, a seventh being formed at the year end.

In the absence of Dr. Whitehouse, Mrs. A. E. Whitehouse thanked members for support of church interests and also paid tribute to Mrs. F. H. Parsons for her faithful leadership for more than 10 years. Mrs. R. Hetherington presented Mrs. Parsons with an engraved silver tray.

Formal installation of officers for 1950 was conducted by Mrs. Whitehouse, as follows:

Honorary president, Mrs. A. E. Whitehouse; past president, Mrs. F. H. Parsons; president, Mrs. A. M. Holder; first vice-president, Mrs. B. C. Bracewell; second vice-president, Mrs. R. L. Davidson; third vice-president, Mrs. Morton Campbell; financial secretary, Mrs. F. H. Johnson; recording secretary, Mrs. J. O. Welsh; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Elmer Brown; treasurer, Mrs. O. H. Lamont; kitchen convener, Mrs. B. C. Bracewell; parsonage, Mrs. W. McCullock; devotional secretary, Mrs. Pearl Bewell; pianist, Miss E. Hart; social conveners, Mrs. W. T. Burley, Mrs. G. W. Walkey; press, Mrs. M. Campbell; flower secretary, Mrs. R. Hetherington.

Mrs. Parsons and Mrs. Holder gave brief talks and were presented with corsage bouquets.

A social hour followed and selections by "The Country Gentlemen Quartette" were enjoyed. Refreshments were served from a candle-lighted table. Mrs. Parson and Mrs. Holder presided at the urns.

Mother And Daughter Banquet Given By Cordova Bay Guides

Led by a grand march played by Guider M. Ganner, 48 mothers and daughters sat down to a banquet in St. David's-by-the-Sea, held recently with Cordova Bay Guides as hostesses.

The table was decorated by the guides with flowers in the several patrol colors. A doll, dressed by Sylvia Pearson as a first-class guide, had place of honor in front of Divisional Commissioner Mrs. Freeman King and Mrs. E. Johns, Brown Owl, Cordova Bay Brownies.

Toasts were given as follows: The King, Irene French; Our Mothers, Althea Dyer, responded to by Mrs. J. Boucher, president, Local Association of Guides; to Mrs. King, Shirley Salmon; to Mr. Boucher, first aid instructor to the guides; Guider Ganner.

A piano solo was given by Noni Pearson, and a recitation by Pamela Douglas.

Division Commissioner Mrs. Freeman King enrolled the following guides: Glenola Watterfield, Nan Lawton, Margaret Graham, Althea Dyer, Margaret Minter and Sylvia Pearson.

Guider Ganner addressed the guides; games were played, and Mr. Boucher and a group of guides demonstrated first aid.

Hostess badges were earned by Pat Boucher, Shirley Gannon, Irene French, Pamela Douglas, Mina Waistell, Noni Pearson, June Robbins, Frances Minter and will be awarded at completion of their second class work.

A campfire, carols, singing of taps and cheers for Guider Ganner, given by the mothers, concluded the evening.

Clubwomen's News

Praise Committee — Esquimalt Women's Institute commended members of the sick committee for their work during the year, when they met in the guild room of St. Paul's Church. President, Mrs. J. Jones welcomed members. It was decided to donate $10 to Cancer Dressing Station. A tea commemorating "Hoodless Day", will be held Feb. 19, and members made plans for an apron stall. Plans for a trust fund of $100, to be used for emergency, were made. Members were thanked for their co-operation during the year, by retiring president, Mrs. J. MacDuff. Refreshments were served.

Re-elect Officers — at the annual meeting of St. George's Women Guild held recently, president, Mrs. M. Turner was in the chair. Following opening prayers, president reported a successful year and an increase in membership. Chairman, Mrs. Ernest Harwood, congratulated members of the executive, and officers were re-elected by acclamation. Rev. William Hills spoke briefly, commending the guild for its accomplishments and aid to the church. Refreshments were served.

Ham And Eggs Rated 'Tops' In Producing Smiles For Day

WASHINGTON (AP)—Science is confirming what a lot of people already knew: You get good "smileage" from a ham and egg breakfast.

Investigators at the United States department of agriculture fed people different breakfasts for two years. Several hours later each day they checked on their good—or ill—nature and theh state of their energy.

While these scientists can't come right out and be too partial to ham and eggs, or bacon and eggs, the findings of all this early morning work certainly are a blow to the cup-of-black-coffee-for-breakfast people.

The tests showed that a cup of black coffee, alone, equals no breakfast when it is given the smile-and-energy test hours later. But bacon and eggs, or ham and eggs, were right at the top of the list on all counts. In some cases the good effects of such a breakfast lasted until mid-afternoon.

But ham or bacon and eggs alone don't make a good breakfast. You need other things, too.

For a really efficient breakfast you should start with a glass of citrus fruit or tomato juice. Then comes a piece of ham at least two by four inches in size and one quarter inch thick (or two slices of bacon, each at least five inches long); two eggs; two slices of toast with butter and preserves; topped off with coffee with cream and sugar.

That's what the home town folks used to call a breakfast that sticks to your ribs. Quite right, say the scientists. And if you are a hard-working man you might add a couple of pancakes.

PROTEIN—BRINGS CHEER

Dr. Elsa Orent-Keiles and Lois F. Hallman, of the bureau of home nutrition and home economics, fund in their two-year study:

1. People who get about one-third of their daily requirement of protein at breakfast feel better throughout most of the day. They have more energy and more good cheer.

2. People who ate such a breakfast had more sugar in their blood (a measure of their energy) after several hours. This laboratory test of the blood confirmed visible benefits of the protein breakfast—the feeling of well-being and cheerfulness.

Dr. Keiles and Miss Hallman say a cup of black coffee is just about the equal of no breakfast at all because:

After a cup of coffee for breakfast, the amount of sugar in the blood of many of the people in this experiment remained at about the level where it would be if they had had no breakfast.

But these people who drank only black coffee reported such things as dizziness, trembling of the hands and feet, lack of energy for work, irritability and other things that go to make an unhappy person.

Dr. Keiles and Miss Hallman said some cereal breakfasts will equal ham-and-eggs if supplemented by a glass or more of milk. Bacon or ham with the cereal didn't add quite enough protein unless servings were increased in size.

CORN CHOWDER

One quarter cup chopped onion, three tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, three cups cubed, cooked potatoes, two cups canned corn, four cupus liquid (water drained from potatoes and milk), two teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, chopped parsley.

Cook onion in butter until onions are slightly browned. Blend in flour. Add potatoes, corn, milk and potato water. Season with salt and pepper. Cook three to five minutes. Sprinkle with chopped parsley before serving. Yield: six servings.

NEW BEAUTY PARADE

HUNSTANTON, Norfolk, Eng.—Beauty parades for cars instead of girls may take place here next summer.

Expert Wants Fashion Museum For Styles Of Every Period

LONDON (CP)—Dream of fashion expert Doris Langley Moore, is a fashion museum—including reference library, pictures and actual clothes of every era.

Mrs. Moore—who has one of the finest collection of 19th and 20th century English dresses—would like to see a gallery of fashion "where besides historic specimens, there would be current fashions.

". . . Selected examples of the latest textiles and the best products of our tailors would be acquired year by year and shown side by side with dresses from grandma's youth.

"And what better time to open this gallery of costume, than the 1951 Festival of Britain," says Mrs. Moore hopefully.

"It would be an inspiration to our fashion industry, a history lesson for our schools and a valuable show-place for overseas visitors."

Mrs. Moore's new book, "A Woman in Fashion," explodes a few of the age-old theories about grandma's waist.

The waist of the Victorian miss was not 18 inches—it was at least 26. The smallest waist in Mrs. Moore's whole collection is 21 inches.

Reason why the Victorian waist looked so much smaller was the built-out bust and hips.

Other exploded myths are that Victorian hips and bosoms were rounder and that shoulders sloped more delicately.

"The former," says Mrs. Moore, "was due to built-out cage-like corsets, the latter to skilful cut.

"The boyish look for the 1920's has also become exaggerated by the years.

"The straight-up-and-down figure fashionable then was an optical illusion created by dress-cut.

"The fact that they were not up-and-down is attested by the mere existence of a younger generation.

"The fact is that women's figures have changed very little with the years," said Mrs. Moore.

"The average model today has no difficulty in getting into any of my 63 dresses which range from 1805 to 1870."

SET LIMIT ON STALLING AT BEDTIME

It seems, at times, that a child's habits change suddenly from good to bad. What is more apt to be the explanation is that at this particular time the child has reached another stage of development and acts "her age."

It would be inconceivable that any child would remain perpetually at one stage of physical development; it is just as inconceivable that her emotions would remain static, or that she would fail to express these emotions in action.

This three-year-old, according to Mrs. P. has never given her one "ounce" of trouble. "Then out of the clear sky one night, she started putting up a fuss when put to bed. She asked me where I was going to be, in what room and what I was going to do. I answered the questions, but after she got to bed she kept on asking them over and over. She has been getting worse and now it is at both nap and bedtime.

"I have been told that a child might act this way who did not feel loved or secure. I have tried playing more with her. My husband has been playing and reading to her. She ought to know she is loved as we waited two years for her.

"I have tried spanking her, which I seldom have done. I have taken away her play privileges, but all this has made it worse. It is getting so she will only sleep 20 or 30 minutes, though she stays in bed an hour or so, asking questions. She usually goes to bed around 10 and sleeps until nine in the morning. She goes to Sunday school, plays with children and has a well-rounded, interesting life. I would appreciate help with this."

May I say, that it would be better if she were in bed by 8.30 p.m. at the latest, then would be more ready for her noonday nap and would go to bed more amiably at night?

This is the age when children are reluctant to be separated from the family. Most of them use other tactics to prolong the association with the mother. Her questions do this. I would set a limit to the number of times you will answer her questions. Say, "I shall answer four questions (three or five, anything) and then tick these off as you do, and remark, "No more questions, now it is time for bed."

Punishment, deprivation of privileges, these all impress the child with her behavior and certainly do not advertise your love for her. Be co-operative. Try to please her but be firm when enough is plainly enough.

Our leaflet No. 38, "Sleep Habits," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: "Let Boys Play With Dolls, Too."

Gonzales Chapter, I.O.D.E., sewing meeting postponed until Jan. 17 at 2, at home of Mrs. J. B. Kay, 2540 Cotswold Road.

Today's Recipe

CORN PUFF

Two egg yolks, one cup milk, two cups cream style corn, one teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, one cup minced cooked ham, two egg whites.

Beat egg yolks, add milk, corn, salt and pepper. Beat well, add ham and fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites. Pour into a greased casserole, place in a pan of hot moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 40 minutes. Yield: six servings.

CORN CREOLE

Two tablespoons chopped onion, two tablespoons chopped green pepper (optional), two tablespoons butter, one can whole kernel corn, one can condensed cream of tomato soup, dash of pepper, six strips of bacon.

Fry the chopped onion and green pepper in the butter until tender. Combine with the corn and tomato soup and a dash of pepper. Pour into a shallow casserole and top with strips of bacon. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 30 minutes. Yield: six servings.

5,000 Men To Participate In War Exercise In North

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department released today a broad picture of Exercise Sweet Briar, the joint Canadian-U.S. air-land manoeuvres that will unfold over 350 miles of the Alaska Highway next month in weather that may hit 50 below zero.

More than 5,000 men will be involved in the test "designed to obtain information and experience in the conduct of tactical operations under severe winter conditions and to provide Arctic training for battalion groups, support services of the army, and combined U.S.A.F. and R.C.A.F. units."

A second purpose is to test "the value of Arctic clothing and equipment, including parachute and airborne stocks."

From Whitehorse, Yukon, to Northway, Alaska, a distance of some 350 miles, the combined forces will cope with theoretical aggressor attacks down the highway from the Fairbanks and Anchorage, Alaska, areas.

WORK FOR UMPIRES

The "Enemy" will have his own share of troops from the U.S. Alaska Command and numerous umpires will decide who wins each skirmish and engagement. The climax will come Feb. 23 when 10 days of tactical operations come to a conclusion with the hypothetical destruction of the foe.

For Canada this is the next stage on from Exercise Eagle in preparations for defence of the country from any real enemy raid. This time, however, all the planes will be operational planes—53 in all compared with 7 for the U.S.A.F.—and the country's first regular airborne battalion will have elaborate support in the form of artillery, engineers, signals, medicals, provost and service corps and ordnance troops.

The airborne unit, the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and its support—that's what is meant by a battalion group—already are in training at Wainwright, Alta., to meet the rigorous conditions ahead.

PRACTICE JUMP

A practice parachute jump will be held there tomorrow by the company that will make the exercise jump under Maj. D. L. Clarke of Calgary. The rest of the army troops will play a ground role although they will at some stages of the manoeuvres be transported by plane. The practice jump tomorrow is the first mass winter jump by the unit.

On Exercise Eagle, an all-Canadian show, army troops were largely confined to the Pats and the air force's planes were nearly 50 per cent trainers.

The Americans will provide the over-all chief in Lt.-Gen. S. J. Chamberlain of the 5th Army. The air chief is Canada's Group Capt. P. A. Gilchrist, commandant of the joint air training centre at Rivers, Man.

ASTRONOMICAL LECTURE

"Astronomy in Postwar Europe" will be the subject of a lecture before the Victoria Centre of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, to be given by Dr. Anne B. Underhill, a member of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory staff, at the Normal School, Wednesday, at 8.

$620,000,000 Program

JOHANNESBURG (Reuter)—Nearly £200,000,000 ($620,000,000) is to be spent on the full development of 13 gold mines in the Orange Free State, Sir Ernest Oppenheimer, chairman of the Anglo-American Corporation, said here Saturday. He described this development as "the most extensive the world has ever known."

Restrictions On New Drugs Stated Needed

VANCOUVER (CP)—Restrictions on the sale of anti-histaminic drugs in British Columbia are necessary at present "in the interests of public health," the B.C. Pharmaceutical Association says.

The drugs, first used for treatment of allergies and later as a common cold preventive, may be purchased in B.C. only on a doctor's prescription. Controls were instituted a year ago.

In a statement released as an answer to "considerable publicity" given the anti-histaminic drugs, the Pharmaceutical Association said there is "insufficient evidence as yet to justify the removal of restrictions."

The drugs are available without prescription in seven provinces, the association said.

It added: "It is felt, however, that where such restrictions already exist as are in effect by law in British Columbia, no steps should be taken to remove the restrictions until all possible doubt to reactions endangering public health has been removed."

Actor Reagan Plans To Choose Own Movie Roles

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Seldom do film stars have an opportunity to stand off and take a long gaze at their careers. Ronald Reagan is the exception.

The chance befell Reagan last year when he and George Tobias engaged in a bit of horseplay during a charity baseball game. Tobias bumped Reagan at first base and the crowd roared with laughter—until it was discovered that Reagan had busted his leg.

"After spending most of last year in bed," he declared, "I'm going to concentrate on my career in 1950. And there are going to be some changes made."

PICK HIS OWN

"First of all," he said, "I'm going to pick my own pictures. After a review of my latest ones, I have come to the conclusion I could do as good a job of picking as the studio has done. At least I could do no worse.

"Contrary to popular opinion, actors have enough intelligence to discern whether a picture is bad or good. An actor is right in turning down a story he doesn't believe in for him. If he doesn't believe in a story, he certainly can't act it.

"Furthermore, 90 per cent of the time when a studio intimates that a star has gone on suspension for saying a story is no good, the studio has a guilty conscience. It knows the story is no good."

GO BACK TO RADIO

He said he is seeking characterizations, not "average boy" roles. His ideal is "King's Row," in which he made his first big impression as an actor.

"Every good picture has a scene which the public remembers," he said. "In 'King's Row' it was when I was in bed and looked down at where my legs used to be and said, 'Randy, where is the rest of me?'

"If a picture doesn't have at least one scene like that one for the audience to remember, it's just a wasted effort."

After reflecting on his statements, Reagan shrugged:

"Well, I can always go back to being a sports announcer."

Gambling Story Now Showing At Plaza

Mario Zampi's new Anglofilm production, "Third Time Lucky," now being shown at the Plaza Theatre, is an exciting suspenseful thriller. It's hero, Dermot Walsh, is an inveterate gambler and its heroine, Glynis Johns, becomes his mascot. The film's director, Gordon Parry, has succeeded in conveying the tension, expectancy and agonising disappointments of gambling. Roulette, Baccart, Dice and Greyhound Racing all feature in the film, and there is a thrilling melee, in which a pistol ominously cracks.

Bette Davis In Comedy At Oak Bay

In "June Bride," Warner Bros.' hilarious comedy, which stars Bette Davis and Robert Montgomery, the First Lady of the Screen indulges in her first light-hearted role in almost eight years.

"June Bride," which came today to the Oak Bay Theatre, is, in fact only the fourth comedy role that Bette has played in 57 motion pictures.

DOMINION THEATRE

A fast-paced film of Cesare Borgia's intrigues, "Prince of Foxes," is now at the Dominion Theatre. It was filmed by Henry King and producer Sol C. Siegel against a backdrop of authentic historical and architectural grandeur dating back to the Renaissance.

ODEON THEATRE

The exigencies of rain, fog, murky skies and other meterological high-jinks are reputed to be one of the major factors in inducing the early mana'mas of the motion-picture industry to settle in sun-drenched California but, paradoxically, for "Sword in the Desert," now playing at the Odeon Theatre, Producer Robert Buckner each morning called eagerly on the rain gods for days-on-end of dirty weather.

SKATING SCREWBALLS—Hockey hokum aplenty is exhibited when these two skating screwballs, Leo Loeb and Howard Sullivan, take up the great ice game. It's one of the funniest numbers in the "Ice Cycles of 1950," which will open at the Memorial Arena on Wednesday night and run four nights and a matinee.

LOOK OVER THESE TWO SAFETY PLAYS

Today's hand was given to me by Herman Goldberg of New York.

Mr. Goldberg brings out two nice safety plays in today's lesson hand. South cashed the king of diamonds, then shifted to the queen of hearts, which Mr. Goldberg, sitting East, won in his hand with the ace.

Mr. Goldberg knew he had a losing diamond and a sure losing club. He must keep from losing two spade tricks. Therefore, the correct play at this time, as Mr. Goldberg points out, is the ace of spades to guard against the singleton king. He played the ace of spades and when the king dropped he had located the other two spades.

North: ♠ J 8 4 ♥ 9 8 3 ♦ 9 6 3 ♣ 10 8 4 2

Goldberg: ♠ A Q 9 6 5 3 ♥ A 6 ♦ 7 ♣ K Q J 5

West: ♠ 10 7 2 ♥ K 4 ♦ Q 10 5 4 2 ♣ 9 7 3

East: ♠ K ♥ Q J 10 7 5 2 ♦ A K J 8 ♣ A 6

N-S Dealer

Lesson Hand—Both vul.

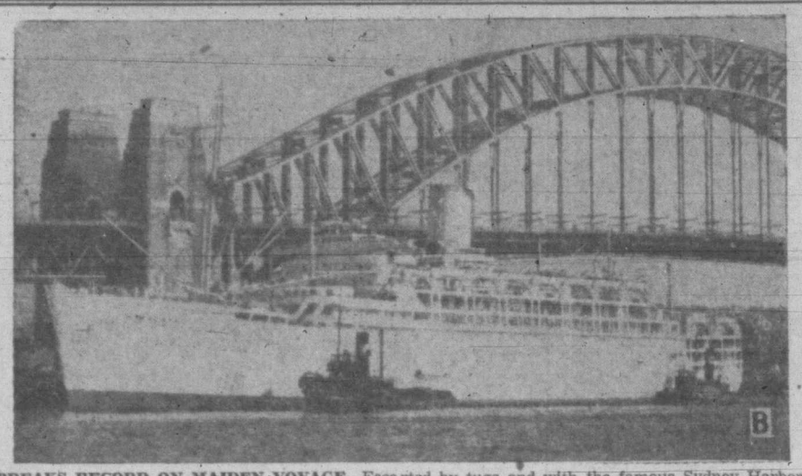
South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	Pass	Double
2 ♥	Pass	Pass	3 ♠
Pass	4 ♠	Pass	Pass

Opening—♦ K

Before picking up the outstanding trumps he led the king of clubs, guarding against four clubs to the ten spot in one hand. South won the trick with the ace of clubs and returned the jack of hearts. This was won in dummy with the king.

Now Mr. Goldberg cashed two rounds of clubs and ruffed the fourth club in dummy with the ten of spades. He then led a small spade and finessed the nine spot. The queen of spades picked up the jack and Mr. Goldberg made five odd.

If North had been able to ruff the third club one lead of trump would have picked up North's last trump. Dummy still would have a trump to ruff out the losing club in declarer's hand and four-odd would have been assured.



BREAKS RECORD ON MAIDEN VOYAGE—Escorted by tugs and with the famous Sydney Harbor bridge as a background, the new 28,000-ton Himalaya completes a record-breaking maiden voyage from Britain to Australia. British-built, operated by the Pacific and Orient Co., the new liner had just clipped 10 days off the prewar record of 40 days for the run.

Nova Scotia Premier Suggests Ways Of Amending Constitution

MONTREAL (CP) — Premier Angus L. Macdonald of Nova Scotia, en route to the important Dominion-provincial conference at Ottawa, paused for a speech here today in which he discussed his conception of how the constitutional question should be approached.

In a speech at a Canadian Club luncheon, the man who several times has crossed swords with Ottawa on constitutional matters indicated he was approaching the new conference with open mind and ready co-operation.

When the delegates from Canada's 10 provinces start tomorrow to discuss the constitution, Mr. Macdonald said he thought they should have in mind that there were some sections of the British North America Act whose amendment could be left solely to the Dominion government, there were sections which should be agreed upon between the Dominion and the specific provinces concerned; there were still other sections he thought needed agreement by a majority of two-thirds or three-quarers of the provinces, and, finally, there were other sections so important that they might be considered to come under the heading of "the compact" and would seem to need unanimous consent.

The Macdonald formula of amendment would need first of all this blanket general agreement: "I suggest that the method by which amendments are to be made should be determined by the common agreement of the Dominion and all the provinces, and once agreed to, it could not be changed except by common agreement of all."

He thought conference aims should be:

1. To maintain the federal principle on which Canada was built.

2. Not to make the drafting of amendments so difficult that they would be virtually impossible.

3. Not to make the process of amendment so easy as to make the constitution unstable.

ECZEMA

A New Concentrated Prescription Found

Eczema is an inflammatory itching condition of the skin in which there is redness, weeping, scaling, crusting, thickening or swelling. A new concentrated prescription has been found to give immediate relief. It has been thoroughly tested and shows remarkable results even in the most severe eczema conditions and other skin troubles. The prescription is a clear, odorless and colorless liquid and will not stain or mark. Application is simple. Affected parts are first washed with a pure soap and warm water, the prescription Exoff Concentrated is then patted on with a small swab of cotton. Apply night and morning. You can get this prescription from your druggist, simply ask him for 3 ounces of Exoff Concentrated. And if your skin is tender, cracks or gets dry, you should also obtain ½ ounce of Exoff Ointment. Cut this out to remind you or to pass to another sufferer.

No Longer Nagged By Constipation

"I always had to take laxatives until I discovered KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN and began eating it regularly. Now, I can truthfully say—no more trouble with constipation." Mr. Charles Bowes, 127 Rubridge St., Peterborough, Ont. One of many unsolicited letters. If you suffer constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet, try eating an ounce of toasty ALL-BRAN daily, drink plenty of water. You may never need another laxative! If not benefited after 10 days, return empty box to Kellogg's, London, Ont. DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

Saturday Is 'Minor Hockey Day'

Minor hockey is the vogue at the Memorial Arena every Saturday morning from 6.15 to noon. These youngsters, keen on the game that has been denied them for so long, don't mind the early hours as long as they can get on the ice and engage in actual competition. Action in the midget game between Cubs and Capitals sees Wayne Hollingsworth of the Cubs in goal, Bob Cummins (10) of the Capitals to the left of the net and Bob Nicol (6), Leachman (2) of the Cubs and Richard Stone (9 of the Capitals to the right of the goal.

While the midget game is in progress, four members of the Senators team of the Bantam League prepare for their league clash with Bruins. Six games are scheduled every Saturday morning, with the midgets taking the ice for the first three contests followed by the Bantams. Left to right, members of the Senators are: Merlin Hawes (3), Steve Foster (2), Murray Little (7) and Brian Erl (1).

Ironmen Push Cougars Nearer League Cellar

Victoria Cougars, who every time they leave their home lair turn into kittenish cats, did it again over the week-end by dropping successive games to Portland Penguins and Seattle Ironmen.

On Saturday night the club lost its fifth straight to Portland, 4 to 1, and followed this by blowing a 6 to 8 game to the Ironmen last night.

The double defeat, the Cougars' 14th and 15th losses on the road this season as compared to two victories, did little to enhance the club's playoff aspirations.

The Cougars are now one point ahead of the cellar-dwindling Penguins, with Portland having two games in hand.

Meanwhile, Seattle moved to within four points of the league-leading New Westminster Royals. Last night's victory gave the Ironmen a record of five wins and two ties in their last seven games.

BLOW TWO-GOAL LEAD

The Cougars got off to a good start in the first period with two markers by Larry Thibeault and Eddie Dorohoy but the club then fell apart defensively when Seattle rallied to knot the count late in the second stanza.

Stan Maxwell gave Seattle the lead at the 17.14 mark of the second frame and from then on it was all Ironmen as they swarmed around the Victoria net giving goaltender Jerry Fodey little chance.

Seattle scored three goals in the third period before Roy McKay could notch the Cougars' final tally a little over a minute from the end of the game.

In Sunday's other game Los Angeles whipped San Diego Skyhawks 8 to 5. Other Saturday results saw Seattle and New Westminster play to a 3 to 3 tie; Los Angeles thump San Francisco 4 to 1, and Tacoma beat Fresno Falcons 3 to 1.

The Tacoma victory preserved the Rockets record of being undefeated in two seasons of play in the California sector of the P.C.H.L.

Wares Suffers Groin Injury At Seattle

Eddie Wares, coach of the Victoria Cougars, suffered a groin injury in last night's P.C.H.L. game with the Ironmen at Seattle and saw no action in the third period.

Extent of Wares' injury will not be known until later today. Wares has played in the last two games with a steel brace on one of his fingers which was injured in the game against New Westminster here Friday night.

Leaders Register Junior Hockey Wins

The front-runners in the Western Canada Junior Hockey League continued to show the way during the week-end. First-place Lethbridge Native Sons overpowered fourth-place Calgary Buffaloes 6 to 4 and Regina's third-place Pats nosed out Medicine Hat 6 to 5 to keep Tigers from drawing even with Buffs.

At Calgary, Bill Chandler scored a brace for Sons with singletons coming from Guyle Fielder, Lee Hyssop, Steve Ray and Joe Wood. Buffs' scorers were Barry Middleton, Jack Smith, Steele and McNab.

NEW YORK (AP) — Middleweight contender Steve Belloise has been forced to withdraw from his scheduled 10-round bout against Tuzo Portuguez of Costa Rica in Madison Square Garden next Friday night because of a shoulder injury. Paddy Young, sharp-punching New York welterweight, has been signed to take Belloise's place.

Edmonton Mercurys Win Opening Clash; Jim Kilburn Injured

FALKIRK, Scotland (CP) — Edmonton Mercurys hockey team Saturday night won the first game of their Scottish tour, downing Falkirk Lions 4 to 1, but at the cost of a severe injury to defenceman Jim Kilburn.

In the last period Kilburn fell heavily when checked while carrying the puck. After being treated on the ice by a doctor he was carried off on a stretcher, suffering concussion.

Later it was learned that Kilburn, now in his third year with the Mercurys, will be able to travel with the team which will represent Canada in the "world" amateur hockey championship in London in March.

Mercurys, western Canada intermediate hockey champions, won the game with fast skating, skilful passing and strategic back-checking. The Lions played well but they were worn down by the fast pace maintained by the 15 men of the Mercury team. The visitors, playing clean, clever hockey, were always ready to take advantage of the breaks. They scored twice when they had players in the penalty box.

Ludbrook, McGimpsey Roller Hockey Stars

Civil Service defeated James Bay, 4 to 2, and Esquimalt and Oak Bay played to a 4 to 4 tie in Sunday's roller hockey games at Stevenson Memorial Park.

Keith Ludbrook scored all four goals in Civil Service's victory, Gordie Ball and Johnny Christianson scoring for the losers.

McGimpsey was the star of the Oak Bay-Esquimalt game, scoring three goals for Oak Bay, including the tying marker in the third period.

Esquimalt took a 2 to 1 lead in the first period on goals by Pringle and Gallup, McGimpsey counting Oak Bay's marker. Stewart made it 3 to 1 for Esquimalt but counters by McGimpsey and Atkins knotted the count before Stintson put Esquimalt again in the lead shortly before the end of the second period.

Week's Puck Action Takes Place Tonight

The only hockey action of the week takes place at the Memorial Arena tonight with three games scheduled in the Commercial Hockey League.

In the curtain raiser at 7 the league-leading Coach Lines sextette will meet the cellar-dwelling B.O.P. squad. Second-place Douglas Tire and third-place Navy who trail the Tiremen by four points will clash in the middle game with Civil Service and Hotelmen tangling in the finale.

Fourth place will be at stake in the final game, the teams being tied for that honor at present.

Sensational Rangers Make Biggest Gain

The New York Rangers are really whittling down that long lead Detroit Red Wings took in the National Hockey League race. While Detroit lost to Boston Sunday, the Rangers were getting a tie with Chicago on top of a victory over Montreal. The only team gaining three points in the week-end struggles, Rangers now are just four games back of Detroit, and solidly entrenched in second place.

The Rangers edged Canadiens 3 to 1 at Montreal Saturday, while Toronto Maple Leafs were beating Chicago Black Hawks 5 to 2 for the first Leaf victory in eight games, of which two were ties. On Sunday the veteran Frankie Brimsek in the Chicago goal was mainly responsible for holding Rangers to a 1 to 1 tie while the Boston Bruins beat the Red Wings 4 to 3.

ROUH ENCOUNTER

In a wild game at New York last night, when 15 penalties were handed out, the Rangers came from behind to gain the tie with the Hawks but they were driving hard for another victory. Bert Olmstead scored for Chicago and Tony Leswick tied it while Jim Conacher was in the cooler in the second period.

At Montreal Saturday the Rangers saw Norm Dussault score for Canadiens late in the first period but the Canadiens didn't get any past Rayner after that. Rayner was brilliant in stopping 28 shots. Some of them coming thick and fast in repeated power drives by Montreal in the third period. Meantime, the Canadiens were caught on goals by Jack McLeod, Don Raleigh and Edgar Laprade.

The final siren at Montreal was the signal for a free-for-all and although play had ended, misconduct penalties and automatic fines of $25 were assessed against Maurice Richard and Ken Reardon of Montreal, and Tony Leswick and Pentti Lund of Rangers. The brawl lasted more than three minutes in front of the New York bench, an aftermath of the close-checking tactics with which Rangers had hamstrung Canadiens' great forward Richard.

KENNEDY STARS

Captain Ted Kennedy of the Maple Leafs, playing his second game since being out for more than a month with a knee injury, scored two goals as the Leafs overwhelmed the Hawks at Toronto Saturday. Kennedy was highly effective on the attack and on defence, checking persistently and easing the Chicago pressure more than once. Left-winger Harry Watson also scored too and Johnny McCormack, Edmonton amateur star with the Toronto senior Marlboros, scored the other. McCormack also had an assist on one of Watson's goals. Gaye Stewart and Metro Prystal were the only Hawks to beat goalie Turk Broda.

At Detroit the Bruins finally beat the Wings after seven previous unsuccessful attempts this season. Terry Sawchuck, up from Indianapolis in place of the ailing Harry Lumley in the Detroit goal, had 22 saves for the night but didn't get much help from his teammates on some of the shots that counted. Sylvio Bettio scored two, Phil Maloney and Woody Dumart getting the other Boston goals. Sid Abel also scored two for Detroit and Ted Lindsay got the other but the Wings couldn't get the tying goal.

Spokane Flyers In Double Win

SPOKANE, (AP) — Spokane Flyers grabbed a 7 to 2 matinee win from the Nelson Maple Leafs here Sunday to make a clean sweep of the two-game series. Saturday night Spokane won 3 to 1.

Pat Petrucci and Johnny Rypien led the Spokane attack with two goals apiece.

Nelson's two counters were by Bill Appleton in the first period, and Johnny Fargher at 17.35 of the second.

A crowd of about 1,500 witnessed the Western International Hockey League tilt.

LONDON (AP) — Eighty-six steeplechasers have been entered for the Grand National, scheduled for Saturday, March 25, at the Aintree, Liverpool, track. Last year there were 91 entries, of which 43 went to the post. Russian Hero, last year's 66-to-1 winner, has again been entered, along with the two horses which filled the second and third spots, Roimond and Royal Mount.

Patterson Leaves For Annual Meeting

Reg Patterson, business manager of the Victoria Athletics, was to leave for Seattle late this afternoon, en route to Richland, Wash., where the annual meeting of the Western International Baseball League will be held tomorrow and Wednesday.

Election of officers and drawing up of the 1950 schedule will be the main items of business.

While at the sessions Patterson hopes to complete a deal with Bill Mulligan of the Portland Beavers for a shortstop and pitcher. Bud Peterson and Cal McIrvin are the two players Patterson is after.

DARTFORD, Kent, Eng. (AP) —Dick Smith, winner of the British light heavyweight boxing championship in 1914 and 1918, died Sunday at his home here.

Sports Conference Makes No Progress

OTTAWA (CP) — Heads of Canadian sports-governing bodies concluded a two-day conference Saturday, apparently no nearer their declared objective of forming a permanent body and gaining federal financial aid.

The 26 representatives of various sports interests wrangled for two days over a proposed constitution for a "Canadian Sports Federation" or some continuing body to co-ordinate all sports.

They adjourned with the constitution question referred back to a committee which will not report until the conference is reconvened next year. This was the same point at which the constitution matter was left at the first conference of he same groups a year ago.

GIVES WARNING

George Machum of Montreal, president of the British Empire Games Association, failed in a last-ditch effort to set up an interim body which would give the group something more than the informal status of a conference.

He was voted down, despite his warning — and that of several other delegates — that the conference must do something constructive.

Otherwise, said Melville Rogers of Ottawa, president of the Canadian Figure Skating Association, delegates would stop coming to the conferences. The idea of an organization which could develop a national sports program would die out.

These remarks were pointed up by the absence from the meetings of several of the most important sports groups in Canada.

Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, who has opposed the suggestion of federal subsidies for sports, did not attend. Also absent was George Dudley, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. J. H. Ross of Calgary, chairman of the conference, explained that through a confusion of dates, the C.A.H.A. annual meeting in Montreal conflicted with the Ottawa conference.

Other groups not represented included the Canadian Secondary Schools Association, the Western Canadian Athletic Union and the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation.

DETROIT (AP)—Nicholas I (Red) Jones, an American League umpire for the last six seasons, disclosed today that he has resigned his baseball post to take a position with a brewery concern.

Rainstorm Cancels Out Third Round Of Los Angeles Golf

LOS ANGELES (UP)—The Los Angeles Open golf tournament rules committee meets early today to decide if the weatherman's prediction for rain should again wash out the event's third-round play.

A driving, unrelenting rainstorm forced cancellation of the round yesterday after about two-thirds of the 96-man field had completed the 18 holes under miserable playing conditions.

The vigorous and repeated protests of the tourney's big-name pros, echoed by most of the little fellows, finally forced cancellation of the round.

Two bantam-size competitors figured prominently in the decision.

The first was Jerry Barber, Pasadena, Cal. With the aid of his deft putter he managed to finish with a two-over-par 73. Barber had a 210 for 54 holes and was practically assured of $2,600 first-place money if the round had been allowed to stand.

Before the round was erased from the books Barber was 10 strokes in front of Ellsworth Vines, also of Pasadena, and there wasn't a man left on the course who had a chance of catching him.

HOGAN FOUR OVER

That included the tourney's other little man and big drawing card—Ben Hogan. At the end of nine holes, Hogan was four over and he agreed with the rest of the event stars—Cary Middlecoff, Sam Snead, Johnny Bulla, Dutch Harrison and Jimmy Thomson—that the round should be called off.

The usually difficult country club's greens, Hogan said, were "unplayable" in the rain. When Hogan's threesome reached the 11th hole Ben teed off, but he was unable to ford a barranca which had filled with three feet of water and was about 15 feet wide.

The 13th green also was completely under water.

The cancellation restored to competition 15 who withdrew rather than play in the rain.

Of those who completed their rounds, Lawson Little of Monterey, Cal., proved the best "mudder." He had a par 71. Harry Cooper of North Hollywood, Cal., had a 72 and Barber and Dave Douglas, Wilmington, Del., each a 73. Arch Stewart of Woodland Hills, Cal., fired a hole-in-one on the 180-yard 14th hole, the tourney's first ace.

The field went at it again with the standing the same as they were after 36 holes of play.

Canadiens' Juniors Draw Reprimand

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association concluded its semi-annual meeting Saturday night by approving playoff schedules and blasting the Montreal Canadien Juniors for a "donnybrook" display in an exhibition game at Winnipeg.

The C.A.H.A. also set its annual meeting for June 6 at Banff, Alta.

At the conclusion of the two-day meeting the Canadian Press learned authoritatively that favorable consideration has already been given to a Quebec branch request that the Memorial Cup final be staged either in Montreal or Quebec City should a Quebec branch team win the eastern Canada finals. However, the branch's written motion can only be dealt with at an annual meeting. The motion was not brought before the gathering or discussed.

The Allan Cup finals which will be held in the west this year will start either May 1 or 2.

The association ruled that the eastern junior finals will end no later than April 24 and the finals for the Memorial Cup will start several days later.

The annual meeting will start Tuesday, June 6, in Banff and finish its working program the following Saturday night. Arrangements have been made for delegates to return to their homes by way of Edmonton, with a brief sightseeing tour by invitation of the Alberta branch.

Armed with the referee's report, president Jimmy Dunn of the Manitoba branch, brought before the meeting a first-hand account of the display of Montreal Canadien Juniors in their exhibition game in Winnipeg last month.

Dunn said two match misconduct penalties were given and in one instance, Dickie Moore of Canadiens manhandled the referee.

Registrar Frank Dillio of the Quebec branch concurred in a unanimous resolution by which C.A.H.A. president Al Pickard was authorized to severely reprimand Moore, captain Ernie Roche and coach Sammy Pollock of Canadiens for the display.

Goalies Shine In Bantam Section Of Minor Hockey League

Minor hockey at the Memorial Arena Saturday morning saw goalies in fine form with no less than three shutout being chalked up in six games, al lthe blankings coming in the Bantam section encounters.

Noel Boston was the big gun in Royals 5 to 0 victory over Cubs in a bantam game as he scored three of the winners markers. Larry Alexander and Brian Turnball scored the others. Bruins edged Senators, 2 to 0, on goals by Leroy Faveng and Robert Large and Maroons nipped Capitals, 1 to 0, on Bob Harrison's marker in other bantam contests.

In midget games, Royals downed Bruins, 5 to 3; Senators trimmed Maroons, 3 to 1, and Capitals edged Cubs, 2 to 1.

John Makowski and Harold Dawson each scored a pair for Royals, Don O'Coffey netting a singleton. Ken Cooper with two goals and Don Donohue with one scored for Bruins.

Goal-getters for Senators were Leon Goudal with two and Bill Kirby with one. Ian Holroyd counted Maroons' singleton.

Ian Miller counted both goals for Capitals, Monty Little scoring for Cubs.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK (AP)—Brig.-Gen. John Reed Kilpatrick, Madison Square Garden prexy, was entertaining the hockey writers the other day by giving his wife credit for the Rangers' winning streak. . . . Seems Mrs. K., who never misses a Ranger game, has been wearing the same red hat to every one since the club started winning. . . . Her great worry is that the headgear was two years old when the streak began and she thus has to appear in an out-of-style hat. . . . One writer (obviously married) interrupted at this point: "I just want to add, General, that it's going to cost you plenty when they finally lose."

MONDAY MATINEE

Sewanee's strictly amateur football team claims a real "little" All-American. He's tailback Jim Mulkin, who weighs 128 pounds unclad and who ran back four kicks for touchdowns, from 45 to 90 yards, last fall. . . . Benny Gould, the Toronto boxer who retired undefeated in 1922 with the last recognized junior featherweight title, owns a candy and cigar store in midtown Manhattan. He's no longer a featherweight, junior or otherwise.

Nanaimo Clippers Come From Behind To Beat Kamloops

NANAIMO (CP) — Battling from behind a terrific offensive staged by Kamloops Elks, Nanaimo Clippers Saturday night managed a 3 to 2 win in a mainline-Okanagan Hockey League fixture. Approximately 2,000 fans witnessed the game.

The visiting Elks drew first blood when they scored at the 15-minute mark of the initial period. It took Clippers, who previously had literally bombarded Kamloops' goalie Earl Betker with rubber, just two minutes to take command. They did it with two quick goals within 36 seconds. Clippers tallied the lone goal of the second period, Kamloops retaliating with a long marker in the concluding chapter. Both periods featured close checking with Kamloops really turning on the heat in the last 10 minutes of play.

Victory for Nanaimo was more or less a personal triumph for Mike Rivers, Clipper goalie. Called on to sub for the absent regular, Stu Hendry, Mike has thus far turned in six straight wins for his teammates.

Jack Forsey and Cliff Mills were the Kamloops goalgetters, while for Nanaimo it was Cal Oughton, Red Carr and Dick Warwick doing the netting.

Washington Skiers In Meet Triumph; U.B.C. Takes Second

TRAIL (CP)—For the third straight year, Buster Campbell's skiers from the University of Washington copped the international intercollegiate meet at Rod Mountain, their 12th championship in 13 inside of three years.

The host school, University of British Columbia, finished second with 285 points, eight less than the winners, while Washington State was third with 359.6. University of Idaho was fourth with 347.9 and Montana State trailed with 344.1.

Gustav Rauum and Gene Brady paced the U. of W. plank corps. Rauum assured the school of the title when he won the final event, the jump, while Brady, a fine four-way man placed fourth in that field. Rauum pulled down 226.7 points on the jump hill compared to Idaho's Svere Kingskaard's 224.9. The Idaho University exchange student outjumped Rauum with leaps of 158 and 153 compared to 144 and 149 but the judges gave Rauum the elge on form and style.

Washington State's Alan Fisher, a Red Mountain Ski Club protege, was the four-way title winner. The star won the cross-country, placed seventh in the downhill despite a fall, was fifth in the slalom and 10th in the jumping. U.B.C.'s Harold Enquist was second in the four-way with 364.6 points compared to Fisher's 382.6. Carol Livers of Montana State placed third and U. of W.'s Brady fourth and Idaho's captain Fred Boyle fifth.

George Merry, another Red Mountaineer now skiing with U.B.C., won both the downhill Saturday and the Slalom today.

Grimm Gets 3-Year $90,000 Contract

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A three-year salary of $90,000 lured Charlie Grimm away from Chicago Cubs to Texas, Dick Burnett, owner of the Dallas Club in the Class-AA Texas League disclosed Saturday.

Burnett said the $90,000 would be strictly on a cash basis involving no stock or bonus payments.

It was believed by veteran baseball men at the conference that on a yearly basis of $30,000 Grimm had become the highest paid minor league manager in history.

Playoff Dates For

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association at its semi-annual meeting Saturday approved the following arrangements for western intermediate playoffs: Series A, best-of-five, Thunder Bay branch winner vs. Manitoba branch winner, March 11, 13, 15, 17, 18, in Manitoba.

Series B: Winner of Series A vs. Saskatchewan winner, in Saskatchewan, March 20, 22, 24, 25, 27, best-of-five.

On the same dates the British Columbia and Alberta winners will meet in either province, depending upon the judgment c the finance committee.

If either Calgary or Edmonton is the Alberta winner, play w move into British Columbia where there is no senior competition. If Lethbridge wins, semi-final play will be in that city, providing the rink gives satisfactory financial guarantee.

Forecast Continued Drop In Sport Crowds

NEW YORK (AP) — A continued downward trend at the box office was predicted for 1950 sports today.

In the annual year-end Associated Press poll of sports editors and writers, 40 of 90 experts said they believed the downward trend which followed the lush war years would continue this year.

Nineteen others thought attendance at sporting events would remain on a par with 1949, 23 expect only a slight reduction if any, and eight said attendance should go up in 1950. Many believe the levelling-off period from the war years already has arrived.

Professional football — particularly since the merger of the National League and the All-America Conference into the new National-America circuit—should boost increased attendance, said 26 writers.

Another 20 were confident that college football would continue to show gains next fall.

Only nine thought major league baseball would show a boost in attendance, and the same number saw continued high box office for basketball, both college and pro.

Horse racing attendance was off in 1949. Twenty states conducted thoroughbred racing last year, with total attendance of 22,591,421. In 1948, with 21 states operating, attendance was 23,853,807.

A boom was seen for boxing, provided Joe Louis decides to make an official comeback in quest of the world heavyweight championship.

This Colt Should Be Winter Wonder

WINNIPEG (CP) — This horse was won his first race —run at the youngest possible age.

The first Canadian thoroughbred foal of 1950 was born at R. J. Spears' Whittier Park Stock Farm at 5 a.m. Saturday.

A well-bred animal—Boswell-Cake and Wine by Teddy Wrack—the winner of Canada's equine stork derby chose one of the coldest days of the year to arrive. It was 36 degrees below zero when he made his appearance.

Annual Provincial Badminton Meeting Slated Here Feb. 4

The annual meeting of the British Columbia Badminton Association will be held in conjunction with the provincial championships at the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club Feb. 1 to 4, it was announced over the week-end.

The meeting will be held Feb. 4 at 2.30.

Main items of business on the agenda include election of officers, proposed changes in existing by-laws and the setting of the site for the 1951 tournament.

By-law changes to be voted on are: 1, That the immediate past-president serve for one year as a member of the executive; 2, That an additional vice-president be added to the executive; 3, That nominations for executive positions shall be received by the association's secretary two weeks in advance of the annual meeting.

Nominations for this year's meeting must be in the hands of the secretary by Jan. 20.

Edmonton Squad Grabs First Place In Prairie Hockey

EDMONTON (CP) — After weeks of see-sawing back and forth, top place in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League now is in the hands of Edmonton Flyers.

Flyers took the slot with a 6 to 3 victory over Saskatoon Quakers, breaking a deadlock with second-place Calgary Stampeders. Quakers threatened to leave the tie intact with a 30-minute drive in which they outscored Flyers 3 to 2 but a four-goal lead Flyers built up earlier kept them in front.

Defenceman Doug Lane collected two Edmonton markers with Bing Merluk, Andy Clovechok, Freddie Smitten and Alex Pringle accounting for the others.

Chuck McCullough, Cy Thomas and Vic Myles, all veteran players, scored Quakers' goals.

Two goals in the first period from Merluk and Clovechok were matched by Lane and Smitten before the halfway mark of the second to give Flyers their 4 to 0 lead. But McCullough and Myles put Quakers back in the game before the middle session ended.

After that Pringle and Lane scored and Thomas rounded out Quakers' efforts. The cellar-dwellers' drive started off well but four third-fame penalties slowed them to a walk.

Saskatchewan Grid Squad Plans Strong Bid For Grey Cup

REGINA (CP)—Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union intend this year to work for four objectives, the principle one the winning of the Grey Cup, president-elect Don Macdonald Sunday told the club's annual meeting.

"We are working on the basis that the Canadian Rugby Union will boost the number of imports allowable from five to seven, and we are looking for seven imports," he said.

"I can't give you their names because we still are negotiating with them. We have been in touch with some eastern players."

Macdonald said the club's other objectives are adequate finances, better accommodation at Taylor Field, and a good turf.

"We need 4,000 seats on the east side. If we had 10,000 seats in the park, we could fill them," he said.

He expressed the view that Roughriders will have "two or three" prospects coming up from junior ranks this year. But "three experienced eastern imports" are needed.

"We will have to get a nucleus of 22 or 23 players this year."

Retiring president Stack Tibbets said football has become "big business" and called for support for Macdonald.

Sunday's Soccer Matches Canceled

Sunday's scheduled first division soccer matches were called off. With Athletic Park still unplayable the game between Duncan and the Navy was cancelled. Second fixture between Alcos and Oak Bay slated for lower Beacon Hill was postponed with the former unable to field a team.

Full schedule of matches is slated for next week-end.

'Y' Hoopers Squeak Through Over Arrows

It's going to be a rousing playoff in the senior A men's cage league this year if Y.M.C.A. and Arrows continue the trend displayed in the season already gone.

On Saturday night the two clubs met for the ninth time this season and this time it was the "Y" coming through with a victory to take a five to four lead in the two-team series.

But the result meant little as the score was again close with the "Y" three-point winners at 37 to 34 although fielding their strongest club of the year.

Doug Peden and Ralph Baxter were in strip for the association squad for the first time Saturday and turned in creditable performances. Peden accounted for eight points and Baxter six. Meanwhile, Arrows were without the services of their high-coring forward Fred Ranson.

RALLY FALLS SHORT

Arrows trailed from the start making their bid to pull the game out of the fire in the dying minutes of the game. Off to a 15 to 4 lead in the first period, "Y" had their margin cut to 17 to 14 at the intermission and with two minutes to play were but one point ahead at 34 to 33.

A field goal by Vic Dale, his only basket of the game, and a free shot by Johnny Clark sewed up the verdict in the closing seconds.

EAGLETTES TOUGH

The Dominion champion C. and C. Taxi squad, formerly Cec's U Drive, put in their first public appearance in a preliminary on the card and although victorious certainly did not have things their own way against the senior B Eaglettes. Hank Rowe's club barely sqqueezed by Wally Yeaman's charges, 31 to 28.

Marion Kennedy with an even dozen points took scoring honors for the Canadian titleholders while sister Flo accounted for 10.

GAMES TONIGHT

Three games will be played at the Vic High gym, tonight starting at 7.

In the first contest Barons will meet Y.M.C.A. of the intermediate B boys loop. This will be followed by two intermediate A games, Elks against Chinese students at 8 and Eight Aces against Victoria High Totems at 9.

Teams and scorers of Saturday games follow.

Police Recover $700 Worth Of Goods

Detectives Angus Munro, left, and Louis Callan of city police look over more than $700 worth of property they recovered as a result of investigations during the week-end, in efforts to identify the goods. Included in the collection were several pairs of blankets, a radio, hotplate, electric kettle, fireplace dogs, fire screens, ashtrays on stands, mirrors, pictures, coffee percolators, card tables, table lamps, footstools and other things.

Says Sport Circles Favor Amateur Hockey On Sunday

Victoria sports circles are not in favor of an "open Sunday," but strongly favor Sunday amateur games, Douglas Fletcher, chairman of Victoria Minor Hockey Association and of Greater Victoria Sports Council, said in discussing the drive in Victoria for a stricter observance of Sunday.

Mr. Fletcher said he has contacted most of the sport clubs in Victoria and has come to the conclusion that most sportsmen are not in favor of the theatres being opened and other commercial activities on Sunday.

But he added most sportsmen resent any interference with the playing of amateur games on Sunday. "They want things to remain as they are," he said.

Mr. Fletcher pointed out there are not enough playing fields in Victoria to hold all amateur games on Saturday and furthermore many of the coaches are unavailable on that day. That is why some games are being played on Sunday, he said.

Canon Coleman, in commenting on the subject, said that he does not object to the playing of amateur games on Sunday afternoon. His stand is that no games should be played during Sunday school hours.

"Religion is essential," he said. He remarked that Hitler paid no attention to the teaching of religion to youth.

The Esquimalt branch, Canadian Legion, has gone on record as being in favor of Sunday sports for juniors.

The Esquimalt branch passed a resolution urging other branches in the district to "see that the interests of juveniles are looked after in recreation, and particularly those who practice hockey on Sunday."

Members felt that any curtailment of healthy sports activities plays right into the hands of juvenile delinquency.

Going To Vancouver For Phone Hearing

The city will have three representatives on hand at the Vancouver sittings of the Board of Transport Commissioners on Wednesday on the B.C. Telephone Company's application for rate increases.

Ald. William Pinfold, chairman of the 1950 City Council public utilities committee, Ald. Harold M. Diggon, the 1949 chairman, and City Solicitor Arthur Patton will present the city's case.

The board will move to Victoria Jan. 18 to continue the hearing on the telephone rate question.

Bill Wong President Of 'Y' Camera Club

Bill Wong was elected president of the Y.M.C.A. Camera Club at the club's first meeting of the year last week.

Stan Mendum and Gerry Emerson were named vice-presidents with Norman Messerschmidt, treasurer, and Dorothea Curtis and Fred Hully, secretaries.

Appointed to the club council were Maurice Pickering, instructor; Maurice Powley, salon director, and Helen Phillips, program convenor.

Pictures which had won club competitions during the past years were on display and the picture of the year award was presented to Bill Wong for "Refreshment."

Color slides of logging at Port Renfrew and of skiing at Hollyburn and Seymour were shown by Frank Johnson.

John G. Jones Dies

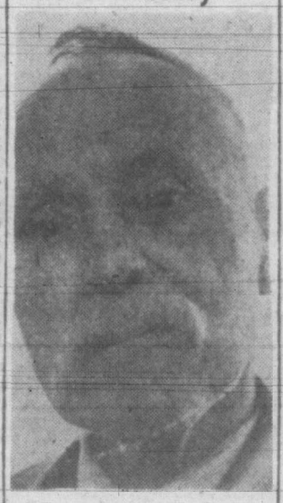
John Grattan Jones, partner in the firm of Columbia Sheet Metal Works, passed away suddenly in Royal Jubilee Hospital Saturday. He was 55 years of age.

Born in Victoria, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. McNab Jones, he learned the metal work trade at Pacific Sheet Metal, where he eventually rose to the position of plant foreman, a job he held until establishment of the Columbia firm.

Mr. Jones was a member of the United Commercial Travelers and the Cosmopolitan Club.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 4 in McCall Bros. Funeral Chapel. Rev. Dr. A. E. Whitehouse will conduct the service. Cremation will follow at the Royal Oak Crematorium.

Funeral Tuesday



HENRY J. BLAND

Funeral services for Henry Joseph Bland, 94, who had been a resident of the city for 90 years, will be held Tuesday afternoon in Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel at 1.30. Rev. A. H. Cummings will officiate.

The late Mr. Bland was born in Peru, South America, and came to reside in the city in 1860. He died Friday at his residence, 620 Bay Street.

He is survived by three sons, Charles in Victoria, Frank of Vancouver, and Robert of Ohio, U.S.A.; several grandchildren and great-grandchildren. He was a member of the A.O.U.W.

Beer Vote Unlikely Now Before March 1

Victoria citizens will probably not vote until March at the earliest on the sale of beer by the glass within the city.

Apparently the provincial cabinet has not yet acted on the plebiscite which circulated throughout the city before Christmas. The plebiscite received the necessary number of signatures of electors to warrant cabinet consideration.

In the plebiscite the electors of the city will be asked to say "yes" or "no" to the question: "Do you approve of the sale of beer by the glass in licensed premises without a bar under government control and regulation?"

If 55 or more per cent of those voting answer "yes," Victoria for the first time may get beer parlors.

Resigns From Board

R. K. Beairsto has resigned his position as city representative of the Royal Jubilee Hospital board of directors. He was named by Mayor George at the beginning of the year to serve to the end of March next year.

The Victoria Prayer group will meet Wednesday afternoon at 3 in Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall, Vancouver Street.

Surveyor-General Norman C. Stewart To Retire Jan. 31

Norman Charles Stewart, British Columbia's surveyor general, will retire Jan. 31, it was learned today at the Parliament Buildings.

Mr. Stewart, however, will continue as a member of the B.C. Yukon-Northwest Territories boundary commission.

Born in Algoma County, Ont., 65 years ago, Mr. Stewart came to British Columbia as a child in 1888. He has made surveying his profession all his life.

He acted as a private surveyor first after his licensing and then served with the federal government's interior department for nine years before joining the B.C. government service in 1925. He did field work in this province for many years before becoming surveyor-general, on the retirement of F. C. Green, in 1946.

Mr. Stewart took part in many major surveying projects, including surveying of both the Hazelton and trench routes for the proposed B.C.-Alaska Highway. He also served on the B.C. Alberta boundary commission.

Would-Be Robber Allowed To Go

There is one would-be hold-up man in this area who must be thankful there are generous-hearted people around like T. J. Stewart, 2656 Scott Street.

Proceeding toward Sidney Saturday morning he stopped to pick up a young man, aged about 24 years, who was standing by the road thumbing a ride at Lake Hill.

When they had traveled as far as Beaver Lake the hitch-hiker told the driver "this is a stick-up."

Mr. Stewart, according to Saanich Police, suddenly braked his car and threw it into a skid. The youth made a grab for the door handle and Mr. Stewart grabbed a crank and struck his passenger over the head.

Mr. Stewart then pushed him out of the car, followed and searched the man and found no gun.

The would-be robber was told by Mr. Stewart to "beat it."

Sgt. Eric Elwell said Mr. Stewart described the youth as having "a round and pale face." He further described the young man as being 5 ft. 11 ins. tall, weighing 170 pounds, and wearing dark brown clothing.

January meeting of the Mission to Lepers will be held on Thursday at 3 in the Y.W.C.A. Rev. R. E. Streutkes will speak.

No 15 M.P.H. Horses

Old Dobbin shouldn't have to compete with gasoline engines in the opinion of the Capital City Tally-ho and Sightseeing Company which asked the city today to change its new Taxicab Regulation By-Law.

The company claimed horse-drawn tally-hos could not be operated under the by-law.

It called for a 15-mile city sightseeing drive in one hour at a rate of $1, and horses could not cover the required distance in the time.

Prior to the passage of the by-law the horse-drawn tally-ho men had met with sightseeing bus operators and it had been agreed that provided the horse ride prices did not undercut the bus charges, the tally-ho operators should not be regulated by the taxicab by-law.

Trade Expert Here

Harold M. Maddick, who served with the trade service of Newfoundland until it joined confederation and who now is assistant commercial secretary, Canadian Embassy, Washington, D.C., today is in Victoria.

While here he is meeting Trade and Industry Minister L. H. Eyres and members of his department staff, and George Alexander, deputy fisheries minister for the province.

Motorist Jailed, License Suspended

A seven-day jail term and a six-month license suspension was imposed against Glen Barlow, R.R. 4, Cordova Bay Road, by Magistrate H. C. Hall at a special sitting of Saanich police court Saturday.

He pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated while in control of a vehicle. Barlow was arrested Friday night by Saanich police after he had ditched his car on Admirals Road.

Women's Auxiliary to the Royal Jubilee Hospital asked the city today for permission to hold a tag day on downtown streets late in April or early in May.

Night School classes at Victoria High School resume this week after the mid-term break. Class in Spanish meets Tuesday night at 7.30.

Financial Review

Wire reports of today's stock market activities:

TORONTO — Steady demand lifted industrials into new high ground for the fifth successive session on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Gains more than tripled losses as steel stocks led the industrial list higher on advances ranging from fractions to a full point.

Papers, utilities, agricultures, foods, constructions, textiles and retail stores showed wide majorities in the plus column.

MONTREAL — Trends were mixed in the Montreal Stock Exchange and curb market.

After a stronger tone at the opening, losses began to firm until minus and plus signs were generally balanced.

Utilities were about the only major group on the board to show strength.

Mines turned upward with penny gains outnumbering losses by a 2-1 margin.

WINNIPEG — President Truman's budget speech, providing lower E.C.A. appropriations, had its effect on Winnipeg grain trade, as declines in the Chicago rye market were reflected in rye here.

Local rye turned weaker after a strong start, in sympathy with these Chicago losses. Local sales depressed prices, during an active late session, erasing gains scored on American buying earlier.

NEW YORK—The stock market kept both feet on the ground in another 2,000,000-share plus session.

Price changes were limited mainly to fractions. Gains and losses were well divided. Rails made a late bid for favor.

Details of the 1950-51 budget made little dent on the market, probably because the budget lined up pretty well with expectations.

Canadian issues were lower.

Alberta Oil Report

Shell Moving In Rig For Northern Wildcat

Special to the Times

Calgary Shell Oil is moving in rig for a new far northern wildcat. While the exact location has not yet been announced, the well will be a stratigraphic test of Shell's huge reservation block straddling the fifth meridian.

This will put Shell in the position of drilling the two most northerly wells in Alberta. The other, Shell Runaway Lake, is 40 miles north and 15 miles east of Imperial Normandville.

* * *

The Barnsdahl, Honolula and Seaboard group are now approching the 2,000-foot level at Wabiskaw Lake. The last report was 1,885 feet. The well is so far removed from civilized territory that sometimes reports are days late in reaching Calgary. About 35 miles east of Wabiskaw, and 80 miles almost due north of Athabasca, the Barnsdahl group is preparing a second outpost test at Pelican Lake. Road work into location is presently in progress.

Thirty miles north of Athabasca, Sun Oil is rigging up near Calling Lake, about six miles west of a Stanolind wildcat which went to 2,940 feet but did not get production. The Sun well which may spud within the next week, will look for oil in the Devonian.

* * *

The Benedum and Trees Christina River Hardy No. 1 test is a lone outpost almost 100 miles to the east and north of Sun, 70 miles due south of McMurray. This is also a stratigraphic test, designed to find out the nature of the beds in this part of the country. The Devonian was contacted at 1,295 feet. The present depth is 1,980 feet. Due to a thinning Devonian coming to the surface towards McMurray, this well is not expected to need to drill below 3,000 feet, probably less.

Number of wells in the northern Alberta now eight counting the two Imperial wildcats near Normandville.

* * *

Complete information on the Union National Del Bonita well in southern Alberta has been made available by National Petroleums.

A small oil well has been obtained in the Madison at 5,150 feet. Production is 186,000 cubic feet of gas daily and 25 barrels of clean oil.

* * *

Imperial Oil has completed its well on the east side of the Leduc field as a salt water disposal well.

This marked Imperial's first dry hole of 1950.

The well will be used as a drain for salt water which is coming up with the oil in other wells in the field. The water has to be separated from the oil, and has to be disposed off harmlessly. It is the one time a dry hole comes in handy.

As yet there are no salt water disposal wells needed at Redwater.

* * *

If Mercury and Leduc Consolidated find oil in their West Nicku test, three miles east of the Leduc field, it will be something entirely different from Leduc.

According to results the well will do a lot to kill or liven up the area due east of the Leduc field. It is being drilled on a 2,080-acre farmout from Imperial Oil.

Farmer, Always On Firing Line, Gets Vocal As Income Dropping

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Any one gets alarmed if he thinks his income is going to drop.

It is not surprising, therefore, when the farmer becomes vocal, as has done recently, over a fall in the prices for his products.

The farmer, it seems, is always on the firing line. His stock-in-trade is in the wide open spaces and only rarely is everything friendly to him.

There is too little rain when he needs it and too much when he can do with less; too much sun or too little; frost at the wrong time; insects to attack his crops and illnesses to kill his animals.

CITY DREAMERS

In fact, the farm looks best of all to city dreamers who see only green fields and softly-lowing cattle which somehow milk themselves.

The farmer is on the firing line not only to weather but to economic changes. Let conditions slacken and, for a while at least, the carpenter, the bricklayer, the lawyer, the doctor, still charge the same—and there is unemployment insurance.

But the farmer's income changes overnight. It is the most sensitive of all. Those big fat hens are only a liability if their eggs won't bring enough to pay for their feed.

And so the farmer looks around for some of the security which other people have been trying to build for themselves. And some attempt is made to give it to him, by means of floor prices which guarantee him against a drop beyond a certain point. But like any one else, he probably thinks they are not fixed high enough.

Virtually everyone wants the farmer to be well off, because we think if he is not well off neither can any one else be prosperous. So we see people calling for lower prices for food, and yet sympathizing with the farmer if food prices start to drop.

February Election In Britain Foreseen

LONDON (CP)—British political writers—both Conservative and Liberal—predict confidently that the country's next general election will be held in February.

A half-dozen Conservative papers have picked Feb. 23 as the exact date.

They base their forecast on reports that district leaders of the Labor Party are reserving halls all over the country for both Feb. 22 and 23.

The 23rd falls on a Thursday—traditional day for voting in British general elections.

The Conservative reasoning is that the halls are being reserved for big election eve rallies, followed by "result parties" election night.

The choice of an election date is up to Prime Minister Attlee alone, except that it must be held before the end of next July. If he has picked a date, he's keeping it secret.

Eastern Canada Cargo Discharged In City

The Canadian freighter Paris City discharged 200 tons of eastern Canada general cargo at Ogden Point docks today before sailing for Vancouver, it was reported by Cecil Ridout, manager of King Bros. Ltd., shipping agents.

The Cape Rodney, now loading lumber for Australia, is expected to sail Tuesday.

Cancel Plane's Visit

Scheduled visit of the 71-ton Boeing Stratocruiser to Victoria's Pat Bay airport this week has been canceled owing to insufficient time under the revised itinerary for the big plane, it is reported.

To Discuss Points In Mayor's Address

Mayor Percy George has called a committee of the whole meeting of City Council Thursday to discuss recommendations he made in his inaugural address Jan. 3.

Ald. Hilda Baxter asked at the inaugural meeting that the recommendations be tabled for full discussion at a later date.

The alderman's action was welcomed by Mayor George, who claims that in previous years the recommendations of the mayor in his inaugural address in most cases were approved by the council and then forgotten.

With a special meeting asked for to consider the recommendations it was his hope action would be taken at least on some of the points raised.

Navy Man Gets Jail For Injuring Wife

A three-month jail term was given CPO. Gerald McGinnis, R.C.N., by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today. McGinnis last week pleaded guilty to a charge of assaulting and injuring his wife. Magistrate Hall pointed out the probation officer's report on accused was not very satisfactory and also that his conduct on the occasion of the assault was very bad.

I Love My Doctor

By Evelyn Barkins

Copyright by Evelyn Barkins; Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: John and I eloped, after discouragement from my parents and despite the fact that John is an interne at a hospital and receives only $15 a month, plus board and room. But soon John will be a full-fledged doctor and have a large practice and I'll finish my law school education and have a career as an attorney-at-law. Right now we are spending our honeymoon in a modest little hotel and dreaming of the future.

* * *

CHAPTER TWO

BUT being married, even thus privately married, felt funny; the intimacy, the close relationship, the understanding.

"Now who would ever guess," I told John one day as I watched him shave, "that a black-haired man like you could grow a yellow mustache!"

John swung his razor blade at me in mock alarm. "Don't you ever tell a soul," he threatened, but I could see a seriousness beneath his comic stance.

"Not a soul," I promised and never did until now.

He found out many things about me: that I never sew slip straps when they break but use safety pins; that I have to sleep with curlers in my hair unless I have a fresh permanent, and that I always go to bed with an apple.

He found out many things about me . . . that I have to sleep with curlers in my hair unless I have a fresh permanent.

In common with all other newlyweds, I suppose, we reviewed our personal history from first meeting onward. It seemed to us, as is the case with thousands of other couples (and it still does), one of God's major miracles that we met at all, and that out of all the teeming millions of people in the world we found each other.

"Do you remember," John asked, "how the first time we met, we danced, and I told you that I wasn't much of a dancer?"

"And you still aren't," I answered.

UNABLE TO RESIST

The record of our wondrous achievement never failed to astound us, only. After seven momentous meetings, we could no longer resist the tide.

"Remember my proposal?" John asked.

"Do I? That's one for the next generation," I laughed.

One evening, our seventh date, John had told me that he had had a dream that he and I were married.

Not wanting to appear overanxious, I had answered: "I'll bet you were glad when you woke up and found it wasn't real."

"Nope," John had said drawing me close, "It was a horrible disappointment."

From there on in, the path was straight ahead, and our eight months' period of engagement had been a sop to family argument, professional convenience, and general convention.

LIVED IN SOLITUDE

All in all, we lived our honeymoon days in a kind of complete, communal solitude, despite the many people we encountered and conversed with. Sometimes, I honestly feel that most newlyweds deserve absolute surcease of all relatives and friends for one whole private year. Much incipient mother-in-law trouble, too, if you ask me, is directly traceable to those early months when Mama is trying to make herself heard above daughter's thorough absorption in her new world, and seeming indifference to the old; although it should be obvious to anyone that there is usually such a visible haze about the chosen couple, that trying to make real live contact with them is harder than trying to get the Statue of Liberty to sing.

John and I were no different. Not that we punctuated every sentence with a kiss, or went around looking like Election Day's chief drunk on a super bender.

It was just that we were basically unaware of everything and everyone but ourselves, although having been well trained, we both went through the proper social motions. Winston Churchill could have been pitching for the Dodgers that season, and we wouldn't have heard or cared.

WENT TO MY HEAD

Everything was new and exciting and different and wonderful. After a lifetime of broadcloth pajamas and flannels, I was suddenly immersed in trousseau satin and lace. The trailing robes, the filmsy nightgowns all went to my head. I felt like the star of an amateur theatrical in hired clothes. Indeed, the very next day after we were married, I sat John down and tried on one item after another for our mutual admiration until his exaggerated responses assured me that he too was convinced.

Whenever we lolled and talked and laughed into the late early morning hours, I expected at any moment to hear my mother's voice calling from her bedroom, like a town crier in a medieval village: "It's one o'clock, dear. You better tell John to go home."

How solemnly we spoke, and how seriously we resolved. We would never become like so many other husbands and wives. Heaven forbid! Bored with each other, eating in silence, living in anger, arguing like mortal enemies! How shocked we would have been, and outraged, to be told that that too had been said before.

How we laughed at everything that happened. There was the time when John was looking for me in the lobby, and the elevator man said: "Want your wife, sir?" and John, taken by surprise forgot and gulped: "My—what?"

And yet, in another way, we felt as if we had always been married. It was thrilling to belong like this together, to do things together, and to always go everywhere together.

"I feel as if it's been this way forever," I told John one night.

"It is and so do I," he answered with a mouthful of toothpaste and water.

"And talk of being tied down," I scoffed. "Why, people are crazy! I'm freer than a hobo on a train." And I was.

To this day, I am always puzzled by the proverbial ball and chain talk. For me, marriage has always seemed the ultimate in liberty, like a convict in first walk out of Alcatraz. Not that home life had been imprisonment by any means, but, on the other hand, neither had it been like this. No more "Hang your clothes up at night" talk. No more: "Be home at 12 dear, or what will the neighbors think?"

The latitude was great. If John ever noticed my best dress in a heap on the chair, I'm sure he never cared. If we decided to come home at 3 a.m. or not at all, who was to object? If we chose pickles and ice cream and frankfurters, my favorite dinner, four times a week, it was strictly a matter between John and me and our stomachs.

In those cases where objectionable conduct arises within the marriage itself, there is a world of difference between John's, "Please, sweetheart, don't do that now," and my mother's stern, "Young lady, you're staying home the rest of the week." As for actual reconciliations after a quarrel, no parent holds a candle to a husband, unfair though it may be.

"JUST LIKE THIS"

"Darling," I told John blissfully from the shallow depths of a happy honeymoon, "isn't marriage wonderful? It always will be just like this, won't it?"

"It will," said John firmly, "just like this."

And, as he drew me close for further answer, I am sure it was just as well that neither of us knew any better.

The first insidious change that marked our marital progress, however, began almost immediately with our search for a place to live. History, of course, flowed calmly onward, completely undisturbed by us or any other single couple's catastrophic events. With unbelievable contempt, it records inaugural processions, Presidential successions, and war and peace, while totally ignoring the day Henry proposed to Anna, or the time Uncle Hiram accidentally burned down the barn. But in true love-conquers-all fashion, John and I kept our own egotistical reckoning in which we, in turn, abandoned the Roosevelt administration for one of our own. High at the top of the world shaking occasions we wrote: "Wedding Day," and underneath, in only very slightly smaller print we inscribed: "The time we found our home."

Unfortunately, even in those prehistoric years when apartments were not quite so hard to find as polar bears in Times Square, house hunting was still a tough problem.

"Must we?" I asked John half-seriously, half-jokingly, when first the call to duty resounded through room 518 like reveille in an army camp, and we launched our original discussion: "I'm having a wonderful time right here."

"So am I," said John, "but two weeks are up already. In a few more, I'll be finshed at the hospital, and we have to be all ready to start our practice and begin making some money. And before you know it, you'll be back at law school."

"I guess you're right," I admitted reluctantly. "Everything has seemed so far away, that I've almost forgotten. Well," I finished, sighing dramatically for the world that is too much with all of us, "what do we do?"

"Find a place to live," he answered immediately, as if we were filling in a prescription blank. Then he laughed. "Not that it won't be hard! We need four rooms at least to accommodate both home and office, but we can only afford two. We want a decent, middleclass neighborhood where the people can manage medical care, but we can only pay for a poor one. And if we do find a nice apartment, then we have to make sure that the price and location check too. Otherwise," he ended cheerfully, "it's as easy as solving a simultaneous quadratic equation with four unknowns."

With these immortal words, we started. Whenever John was off duty from the hospital (the grindstone having called for him the week before), we hunted. We walked upstairs and downstairs and in our lady's chamber to no avail. If the rental price was fine, then the location wasn't; if the neighborhood checked, then nothing else did.

"There's always something," I told John mournfully one night, as I lay on the bed resting my aching feet in the air, a curative beyond John's mere medical comprehension.

"I know," he answered. "Like ants on a picnic or thorns on a rose—"

"And blisters on a hike," I finished the trilogy pointedly.

IN MEMORIAM

MICHELL—In loving memory of William David Michell, who passed away Jan. 8, 1949.

Gone from us but leaving memories,
Death can never take away,
Memories that will always linger
While upon this earth we stay.

—Ever remembered by his wife and family.

PAINTER—In loving memory of Mrs. J. E. Painter Sr., who passed away on Jan. 9, 1945.

A wonderful mother, woman and aid,
One who was better, God never made;
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true.
One in a million—that, mother, was you.
Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal, ever upright:
Love by your friends and all you knew,
Wonderful mother—that mother was you.

—Ever remembered by her sons, daughters and grandchildren.

Sacrifice Sale at $7500 Under Value
Owing to sudden serious illness of owners, we have urgent instructions to offer as guest house or rest home:
(1) One of Victoria's show places within one mile of City Centre in lovely surroundings.
(2) Eight bedrooms, large living and dining room, modern kitchen, laundry, automatic hot - water heating, two bathrooms, etc., all in perfect condition.
(3) More than fully furnished with the best furniture, pictures, bedding, household linen, china and glass, laundry and other domestic equipment, etc.
(4) Beautifully landscaped garden with a wealth of shrubs, trees, bulbs, roses and all fruits, including cherry and peach.
(5) Low expenses; high revenue certain, and a fine home for owner as well.
The owner has wide connections with American and Canadian Travel Bureaus and has made a surprisingly high income without overwork. With the tourist influx to Victoria increasing every year an opportunity such as this occurs very rarely and we confidently recommend it to any enterprising person as a certain big money-earner.

Labor Dept. Says 261,000 Jobless; Figure Disputed

OTTAWA (CP)—About 261,000 Canadians of a working population of 5,200,000 were looking for work late in December, the Labor Department estimated Saturday.

That was about 5.2 per cent of the total number of persons who had jobs or were looking for jobs.

The department issued the figures in apparent answer to a joint letter from Canada's two big labor congresses to the federal cabinet earlier in the week.

The labor organizations estimated unemployment at more than 300,000 and demanded government action to meet the "national emergency."

The department's survey said current unemployment was the result of seasonal declines in industries such as construction and reduced operations in the logging industry which in other years had taken up the usual winter slack in employment.

"A considerable portion of the current unemployment results from the continuing growth of the Canadian labor force rather than from any decline in employment," the bureau said.

"Over the past year, the growth of the total labor force has amounted to around 120,000 while the number actually at work has increased by close to 100,000."

The figure of 261,000 did not represent the number of unemployed.

It was the number of persons who had applied to the National Employment Service for jobs and for whom no jobs had been found by last Dec. 22.

The most serious problem appeared to be in the Maritimes—where employment had been cut by 35,000 by reduced logging operations—and on the Pacific coast.

The Pacific coast had 9 per cent of its labor force—39,900 persons—looking for work. The Maritimes had 7 per cent—38,000.

'FACTS CONCEALED'

WINNIPEG (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, national leader of the C.C.F., said Sunday the federal government has "deliberately concealed" unemployment statistics from the public during the last four months.

Mr. Coldwell, who attended the inter-provincial conference Friday and Saturday and sat in on the meeting of the national council today, made the statement at a public meeting in a Winnipeg theatre.

Unemployment figures, now at a postwar peak of 261,000, were usually contained in a monthly bulletin distributed by the Department of Labor, Mr. Coldwell said.

He recalled a conversation last month with Pat Conroy, national secretary of the Canadian Congress of Labor, in which Mr. Conroy had said the C.C.L. office had not received the bulletin for the last four months.

After a check with the Labor Department, Mr. Coldwell said he was told the C.C.L. and the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada had been taken off the mailing list for the bulletin on instructions from Labor Minister Mitchell.

Two Seek Council Seat At Nanaimo

NANAIMO—Harry Tuck and Phil J. Piper are the only two candidates for an aldermanic vacancy of Nanaimo city council to-date, with nominations closing Wednesday.

Both are members of the Nanaimo Parks Commission. Voting will take place Jan. 17.

The hoodlums who broke into North Ward School during the week-end left considerable wreckage in their wake. The offices were ransacked, detectives reported.

TRIAL POSTPONED

QUEBEC (CP)—J. Albert Guay, the Quebec jeweler accused of murder in the Sault au Cochon air disaster Sept. 9, appeared briefly in court of king's bench here today, when his trial was deferred to Feb. 13.

Dies After Fall

VANCOUVER (CP)—A fall on icy streets is blamed for the death in hospital during the week-end of James Porter, 65. He was admitted to hospital Jan. 1 after fracturing his hip in a fall, and died Saturday.

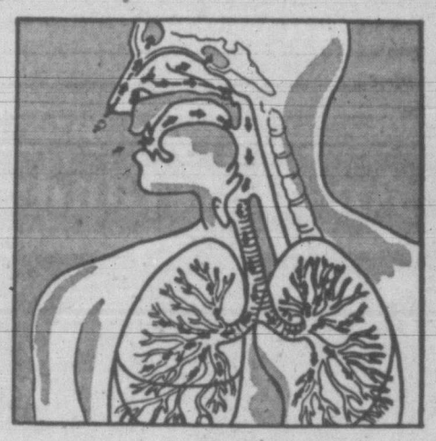
Greatest Discovery in Two Decades for ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, SINUS

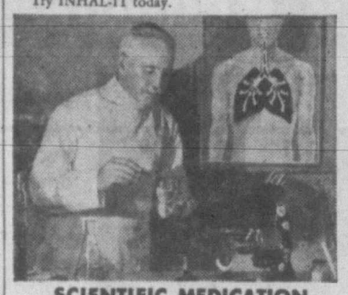
Famous Duke-Fingard Hospital-proved Method Now Available for Convenient Treatment AT HOME

Ends Wheezing, Coughing, Choking, Cold Sweat, Nasal Discharge
KNOCKS OUT Symptoms of COLDS FAST

Just Inhale Medicated Vapour
No Shots! No Dope! No Pills!

Scientific INHAL-IT has the power to help you! This hospital-tested medicated vapour has already brought thousands freedom from the terrible symptoms of asthma and bronchitis. You too may enjoy the same wonderful results! Try INHAL-IT today.





SCIENTIFIC MEDICATION HOSPITAL TESTED

The Duke-Fingard Inhalation Treatment for asthma, bronchitis and deep chest colds has been tested and proved in world-famous hospitals such as Eversfield, England and Peamount Sanatorium, Dublin. Cases deemed "hopeless" were completely restored to health by the specially medicated vapour which attacks bronchial and nasal infection. Ask for INHAL-IT today. You may never again suffer one day of agony.

Actual Case Histories Tell Wonderful Story†

"Incurable"

"I had asthma and sinusitis for many years. Five doctors could not do a thing for me. Ever since taking the Duke-Fingard Inhalation treatment, I have felt fine, and I trust this will help others who now suffer from so-called 'incurable' diseases."

*Medical Report

"Swims Every Day"

G. McE., a lad who after fourteen years of persistent asthma commenced treatment. Three months of treatment apparently cured his asthma. He gained 20 pounds. He learned to swim and could swim as much as 5 miles a day.

*Medical Report

*From authentic medical reports available on request (based by professional models).

HOW ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS STRIKE

Asthma and bronchitis are diseases of the respiratory system. When these diseases attack the bronchial tubes, breathing becomes labored. You start wheezing, coughing, choking. You may even suffer violent paroxysms. INHAL-IT may at last be the answer to your days of pain and nights of agony. A complete recovery may be within your grasp . . . because scientists have proved that INHAL-IT can remove the infection that may cause all your suffering.

How INHAL-IT Works

Science has discovered that asthma and bronchitis are often caused by an infection. INHAL-IT's specially medicated vapour now reduces the infection and helps restore healthy tissues, as explained by the late Dr. A. G. McPhedran of Toronto University: "The allergies disappear when the infection is cleansed from the nose and chest; the tissues become healthy." Dr. R. W. Boyden, D.S.O., of Toronto who used the famous Duke-Fingard treatment on his patients said, "I am reminded of the authoritative and expressive statement of the late Prof. D. F. Fraser-Harris, 'These results are well nigh unbelievable'." Don't delay this opportunity to find new comfort, new freedom from asthmatic and bronchial attacks. Get INHAL-IT today.

IF YOU'RE NOT ON THE POWERLINE

write today to Wood-Fingard-Eaton Co. Ltd., Dept. 000, 923 College St., Toronto, Ontario, for full information on how you, too, may have the blessings of INHAL-IT.

Hogan's Comeback

Right in there punching after being virtually counted out of competitive golf following his auto crash a year ago is Ben Hogan, again "Blazin' Ben." Blasting out a two-under-par 69 in the second round of the Los Angeles Open Saturday, the game little Texan was five strokes off the pace of the leader, Jerry Barber, a Pasadena amateur. Rain washed out play in the $15,000 tournament Sunday.

Indiana Rivers Flooding; 16,000 Acres Under Water

CHICAGO (AP)—The Wabash River, straining at its man-made bulwarks, threatened today to flood thousands of acres of Indiana land, adding to the devastation of one major levee break-through.

The Niblack levee, seven miles north of Vincennes, Ind., collapsed Sunday night, flooding 16,000 acres of lowlands and forcing evacuation of all persons in the area. But this run-off of water is expected to have little effect on the pressure of river water inching near the top of Vincennes' sea wall.

Soldiers, volunteers and state troopers were on hand at Vincennes to prepare for the rampaging Wabash.

Meanwhile, on the west coast, fruit and vegetable growers of southern California breathed easier with a damaging five-day cold snap at an end.

In the eastern half of the U.S. the cold weather was cornered in New England, but it was being absorbed by a mass of warm air from the south which already had thawed out ice-glaced Memphis, Tenn., and other points that had been crippled by freezing rain.

Except for another pocket of cold air in Minnesota and North Dakota, the rest of the country had temperatures around normal.

37,000 U.S. Miners Strike; Say 'No Contract, No Work'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — More than 37,000 soft coal miners went on strike today in Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia in the second large coal-work stoppage in the United States in two weeks.

A half-dozen steel companies, and the giant Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, reported their pits closed by miners' refusal to work.

Miners gave no reason for not working but a sign posted at a Rivesville, W.Va., mine of Pitt Consol, said:

"No contract, no work."

U.M.W. President John L. Lewis has instructed his men to work three days a week even though the contract expired last June 30.

Cool Robber Takes $3,000 From Bank, Escapes In Crowd

MONTREAL (CP)—An unobtrusive man wearing a brown hat and brown overcoat today robbed a Bank of Toronto branch in downtown Montreal of $3,000 and calmly walked out with the loot.

Miss Doris Paris, teller in the bank branch on Beaver Hall Hill, told police the man approached her cage while the bank was crowded with customers. She said he handed her a cheque on the back of which was written: "Hand me over all the money in the till or I'll shoot."

The startled girl looked up to see the man, about 30, nonchalantly pointing a pistol at her. She hurriedly obeyed his order and the robber casually walked out with the $3,000 in his pocket and mingled with passersby on the street.

No one noticed the robbery until Miss Paris gave the alarm.

Drew Planning Tour Of Western Canada

OTTAWA (BUP)—Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew said today he planned to tour western Canada before opening of the next session of Parliament.

Drew, who also plans a two-day visit to Quebec City, said he would decide on his western tour when opening date of the next session of Parliament became known. The session was expected to open Feb. 16 or 23.

15 Famed British Footballers Asked To Tour Dominion

LONDON (UP)—The English Football Association announced today it had invited 15 soccer players to tour Canada during May and June.

The invitations include the most famous of all British soccer players, Stanley Matthews of Blackpool, and two other international stars, George Hardwick of Middlesbrough and Jimmy Hagan of Sheffield United.

The remaining 12 men are: S. Hansen of Bolten, R. Robinson of Middlesbrough, T. Ward of Derby County, R. Flewin of Portsmouth, H. Johnston of Blackpool, E. Russell of Wolverhampton, G. Vaughan of Charlton, W. Slater of Blackpool, J. Sewell of Notts County, L. Medley of Tottenham, N. Lofthouse of Bolton, J. Wilshaw of Wolverhampton.

T. Dawson of Grimsby will accompany the squad as trainer.

Three more players in addition to a player-manager also will be invited to make the tour, the announcement said.

Seattle Puck Stars Run Afoul Of Law

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (AP)—Hockey players should confine their speed to the ice, the State Patrol advised Dave Downie, 40, and Ron Pickell, 30, of the Seattle Ironmen professional hockey team early Sunday when they arrested the pair on a charge of speeding on the Pacific Highway north of here.

Cal E. Stearns, 23, also of the Seattle team, was booked on a charge of destruction of state property. Officers said Stearns let the air out of one of the tires on the patrol car while Downie and Pickell were being booked.

Officers convinced Stearns he should change tires on the patrol car. He did and then was released on $10 bail. Downie and Fickell are out on $15 bail. They are cited to appear in court here Friday.

U.B.C. Pucksters To Meet Alberta

EDMONTON (BUP)—The University of British Columbia will play hockey in Edmonton for the first time tomorrow night.

The U.B.C. Thunderbirds will meet the University of Alberta Golden Bears in the first of a two-game exhibition series. The second game will be played in Edmonton Wednesday night.

Coach Clarence Moher of the Alberta team has been able to call enough athletes for only a tentative starting line-up at this late date.

Strange Loot

MONTREAL (CP)—Maybe one husband just got desperate.

Samuel Nadler, owner of a Montreal diaper laundry, reported to police today that one of his trucks was stolen Sunday. It contained 90 bags of dirty diapers and 12 bags of clean.

The truck was found abandoned later—but the diapers were missing. Mr. Nadler said they were worth $2,000.

Weather Forecast

Snow, changing to rain before midnight; cloudy overnight and Tuesday with little change in temperature. Southeast winds 15 m.p.h., shifting to southwest 25 before midnight. Low tonight, 30; high Tuesday, 38.

Stays With Ohio

COLUMBIA, O. (AP) — Wes Fesler will remain as head football coach at Ohio State University and his salary will be increased from $13,500 to $15,000 a year, the university announced today.

Before his Buckeyes won the Rose Bowl game 17 to 14 Fesler admitted he was considering several business offers.

$12,000 Diaper

New York had its first beauty contest of the new year and 17-month-old Mary Kennedy emerged the winner. She was crowned Diaper Queen of 1950. And why not? She's wearing a $12,000 mink diaper and you'd have to be a queen to run around in three-cornered pants that expensive.

Ask Prompt Action On Unemployment

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's two major labor congresses again called today for "prompt action" by the Dominion government to meet the unemployment situation.

In a joint statement, the presidents of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the Canadian Congress of Labor also urged the government to make public unemployment figures which they said are being "withheld."

The statement, by Presidents Percy Bengough of the T.L.C. and A. R. Mosher of the C.C.L., was a follow-up to a letter they wrote the cabinet 10 days ago declaring there was a "national emergency" in unemployment and asking the government to get its accumulated public workers projects for unemployment under way.

At that time, the presidents said they had reason to believe more than 300,000 persons were unemployed in Canada.

Former Priest Directs Move Against Church

PARIS (Reuter)—The conservative Paris newspaper Figaro today alleges that an unfrocked priest in Warsaw is directing a Moscow-controlled organization for Communist operations against the church, known as the "Orginform."

He is 60-year-old Vasily Gorelov, a Russian who entered holy orders in the Tsarist regime but was unfrocked shortly after the Bolshevist October revolution and became a colonel in the Russian secret police, Figaro says.

Officers Arrest 1 In City

City police this afternoon were investigating the possibility of several juveniles being responsible for most of the week-end break-ins and attempted break-ins of business houses and dwellings and parking meter money robberies.

Police are virtually certain at least one gang of youths was involved in the downtown thefts and the robbing of 21 parking meters of their pennies and nickels.

Up to this morning the count on the city police blotter was eight business premises entered and three attempted entries, and three entries of dwellings. One school was also entered and considerable damage done.

Most of the places were entered by breaking windows or boring holes to release door locks.

The total haul added up to probably $100 in cash, some bonds, a diamond-studded wrist watch, $100 diamond ring, some shirts, a typewriter and other less valuable articles.

All places broken into were thoroughly ransacked.

The week-end wave is somewhat similar to that which lasted for about a week late last November. Police cleared this series up by arresting a number of juveniles.

Up to this afternoon only one youth was under arrest. He was picked up by detectives early Sunday morning after three boys were seen fleeing from a clothing store which they had tried to enter.

Ambassador To China Holidaying In City

Holidaying in Victoria for the next two months will be Hon. T. C. Davis, Canadian ambassador to China, who returned from that civil war-ridden country in October.

Mr. Davis and his wife arrived her Sunday from their home in Prince Albert, Sask., for a rest—the first holiday they have had in three years.

That, the ambassador says, is one thing the Chinese Communists did for him.

An enthusiastic golfer, he was forced to forego a round he had planned today when snow greeted him this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis are staying at the Empress Hotel.

New Drug Sold By Prescription Only

OTTAWA (CP)—Aureomycin, the new drug which has been found useful in the treatment of some infection not affected by penicillin and streptomycin, may be sold to the public only on prescription, the Health Department announced today.

The department said the regulation had been made because relatively little is yet known about aureomycin's therapeutic value and because it should be used only by doctors or specially-qualified medical research workers.

Says Sister Ship Of Lost Tugboat Unsafe For Service

Belief that the Isabella Stewart, sister ship of the tug George McGregor, which capsized with the loss of six of her seven crew members off Trial Island, was unsafe for any type of service, was expressed by Robert Allan, naval architect, at the public inquiry at the Court House today into the tug disaster.

Mr. Allan gave results of a recent survey and stability report of the Isabella Stewart.

He referred to reports he had had alleging that five vessels of the George McGregor type had foundered.

When asked by J. B. Clearihue, K.C., how he accounted for the George McGregor being in service since 1943, Mr. Allan replied: "Pure luck."

U.S. Freighter Put Out Of Commission By Chinese Shellfire

By WAYNE RICHARDSON

ABOARD FLYING ARRROW (AP)—Chinese Nationalist warships riddled this U.S. freighter with shellfire today in international waters off Communist China. There were no casualties, but her captain said she is no longer seaworthy.

Capt. David Jones said the Flying Arrow had been hit by 30 to 40 shells as she attempted to run the Nationalist blockade of Chinese Communist ports off the mouth of the Yangtze River.

He said the ship is unseaworthy and he will ask the Isbrandtsen Lines, owner of the ship, to ask the U.S. State Department to intercede for safe passage to the nearest port for repairs.

That would be Shanghai, the Flying Arrow's destination when she left Hongkong early Saturday with a $10,000,000 cargo for Red China.

The ship's steering room was hit by 14 shells, he said. Other hits were scored on the afterpeak water tank, afterdeck houses, paint lockers and storerooms. Some shells left holes 24 inches in diameter as low as four inches above the waterline, Jones said.

UNDER GUARD

(This dispatch was timed by Richardson aboard the Flying Arrow just 10 minutes after Chinese Nationalist naval headquarters on Formosa had said the ship was lying at anchor under guard of the warships.

(The Nationalists announced the warships had detained the freighter off the mouth of the Yangtze River.

(A headquarters spokesman said the Flying Arrow was shelled after she had ignored repeated warnings to halt.)

Fire started aboard the merchantman by the shelling was extinguished. Considerable of the cargo, including many smouldering bales of cotton, was thrown overboard.

The British sloop Black Swan had boarded the U.S. ship to help fight the flames.
